WHANGPOO RISES ABOVE BUND LEVEL DURING TYPHOON STORM

M. Maurice Rossi, who together with M. Codos, flew from New York to Rayak, Syria in 55 hours, 40 minutes, to establish a new non-stop flight record.

TRAPPED IN COCKPIT

PILOT BURNED TO DEATH IN AEROPLANE

Terrible Disaster In Taking-Off.

ITALIAN ACE CRASHES IN NEW YORK.

New York, Yesterday.

Marquis De Pinedo, the Italian air ace, was killed to-day, in taking off for Baghdad on an attempt to beat the long distance flight record at present held by the French flyers, Mm. Codos and Rossi.

Marquis de Pinedo prepared for the flight with the utmost secrecy and thoroughness. He supervised the construction of the special Bellanca plane, carrying 1,000 gallons of petrol with an estimated range of 7,500 miles.

The plane was fitted with a robot pilot and also an ingenious sensitized altimeter to squirt cold water on the face of the pilot at a low altitude and awake him if he was dozing.

The Marquis taxied 2,000 feet along the runway, and was gathering speed when the plane skidded into the rough. He endeavored to bring the plane back to the runway, but crashed into a fence alongside the Administration Building.

The plane burst into flame and the Marquis's screams were heard as he tried to jump out of the cockpit. The machine immediately became a blazing inferno and there was no chance to effect a rescue.

The body, unrecognisably burned, was found beside the wreckage.

Mm. Codos and Rossi captured the long-distance flight record from Britain, on August 7, when they landed at Rayak, Syria, after flying 5,657 miles from New York in 55 hours 50 minutes. The machine they piloted had a 600 h.p. engine and a speed of 150 m.p.h.

BRITISH CARS TRIUMPH.

First Two Places In Ulster T.T.

NUVOLARI WINS WITH AN AVERAGE OF 78.65 M.P.H.

London, Yesterday.

Driving a British M. G. Magnette car, Nuvolari, the Italian ace, won the Ulster Road Race Tourist Trophy with an average speed of 78.65 m.p.h. to-day.

The winner's time for the course of 478 miles was 5 hours 56 mins. 34 secs. Hamilton, driving an M. G. Midget, was second, and Rose Richards, in an Alfa Romeo, came third.—Reuter.

GERMANY IN 1934, DAVIS CUP.

Beat Denmark By 3 To 0.

Leipzig, Yesterday.

Germany eliminated Denmark by three matches to nil in the quarter finals of the qualifying contest for the 1934 Davis Cup series to-day.

As the result of their win Germany will be competing in the 1934 series.—Reuter.

NAZIS SEIZE "REDS" WITH TYPHUS GERMS

Plot Suspected In Nuremberg.

HITLERITES' CONGRESS.

Nuremberg, Yesterday. The German authorities here claim the discovery, during a recent raid on Communist houses, of enough typhus bacilli to cause terrible havoc amongst the population. The discovery is considered significant in view of the Nazi Congress now being held in the city which is thronged with visitors.—Reuter.

Hofer's Warm Welcome In Nuremberg.

Berlin, Yesterday.

The Nazi Congress at Nuremberg is wildly elated at the unexpected arrival of an aeroplane from Italy, carrying Herr Hofer and his four comrades who secured his release from Innsbruck prison in the Austrian Tyrol, by means of a trick.

Herr Hofer, Nazi leader in Austria, narrowly escaped recapture when an Austrian sentry riddled his car with bullets, wounding him in the knee. The party abandoned the car and after a tedious journey over mountain tracks, spent a night in a plantation, surrounded by pursuers.—Reuter.

HITLER DEMANDS RETURN OF SAAR

"Germany Will Never Renounce Valley."

Berlin.

The Saar must be returned to Germany, Chancellor Adolf Hitler declared in an emotional address before 150,000 persons at Ruedesheim.

"Germany will never renounce the Saar," he said.

The Saar is administered at present by the League of Nations. A plebiscite is to be held in 1935 to determine whether the Saar will continue its present semi-autonomous situation indefinitely, will revert to Germany or go to France.

The Saar is a region of 738 square miles north of Lorain, rich in iron and coal. The population is about 770,000.

FREE STATE BOYCOTT OF BRITAIN.

Intensification Urged By Republicans.

Dublin, Yesterday. "Don't Drink British Ale" and "Don't Sail In British Ships" are amongst large-type slogans freely featured to-day by the An Proibacht, "the organ of the Free State republicans." The journal reproduces an Irish Republican Army statement attacking President De Valera, and leaders are urging an intensification of the boycott of British goods.—Reuter.

LABOUR, AND FORD, RETARD U.S. RECOVERY

Ford May Fight Administration.

BOYCOTT THREAT TO MOTOR MAGNATE.

Washington, Yesterday.

Labour policy troubles and the mystery of Mr. Henry Ford's intentions are the big problems confronting the United States Industrial Recovery Campaign.

Following the Eastman memorandum Mr. J. Whitney, Chairman of the Railway Labour Executive Association issued a statement to the effect that he would take immediate steps to shorten the working day without a reduction of wages in order to prevent the railways finding no place in the recovery measures.

Meanwhile, coal-owners and miners have reached a deadlock over a clause in the Code providing for the engagement of men on merit rather than on the Union basis.

Mr. Henry Ford still maintains silence, but it is rumoured that he is planning a sudden vigorous offensive against the Administration, providing U.S.$5, per day as a minimum wage, and a 44-hour week.

On the other hand, it is stated that Mr. Ford may sign the Code. If he is not required to open his books or join the United States National Automobile Association.

The time limit for submission to voluntary Codes expired yesterday.

General Hugh Johnson, head of the Recovery Administration, has been authorised to take summary action to impose the Codes on laggards and recalcitrants.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI FLOODED

DAMAGE IN CENTRAL DISTRICT

Trees Uprooted By Fury Of Gale.

CABLE SERVICE CUT OFF TO JAPAN.

Shanghai, Yesterday.

Although Shanghai has escaped the full force of the severe typhoon which has been moving on the northerly track for the past two days, considerable damage has been done by the rapid rise of the river, which flooded the Central District to-night.

Winds of gale force were experienced throughout the day, increasing towards nightfall.

The city escaped the full intensity of the typhoon which is careering along on a 30-mile front. The typhoon was 40 miles eastward of Shanghai at 10 p.m. miles as it whistled along in a north-north-westerly direction.

All day long, a high wind, accompanied by intermittent bursts of rain, swept through the city, uprooting trees, blowing down hoardings and demolishing beggar-huts.

The damage was considerably greater towards 11 p.m., when the Whangpoo River rose above the Bund level, rapidly flooding the low-lying streets.

Many houses, particularly in the Hongkew district, were converted into islands, with water from one to two feet deep, while the flooding of basements in office buildings in the Central District caused further damage.

The Whangpoo is completely denuded of junk, sampans and launches, which were forewarned and took shelter before the fury of the storm unleashed itself.

Communication with Japan via the Great Northern lines has been cut off since 9.10 p.m.

HURRICANE HAVOC IN CUBA AND MIAMI

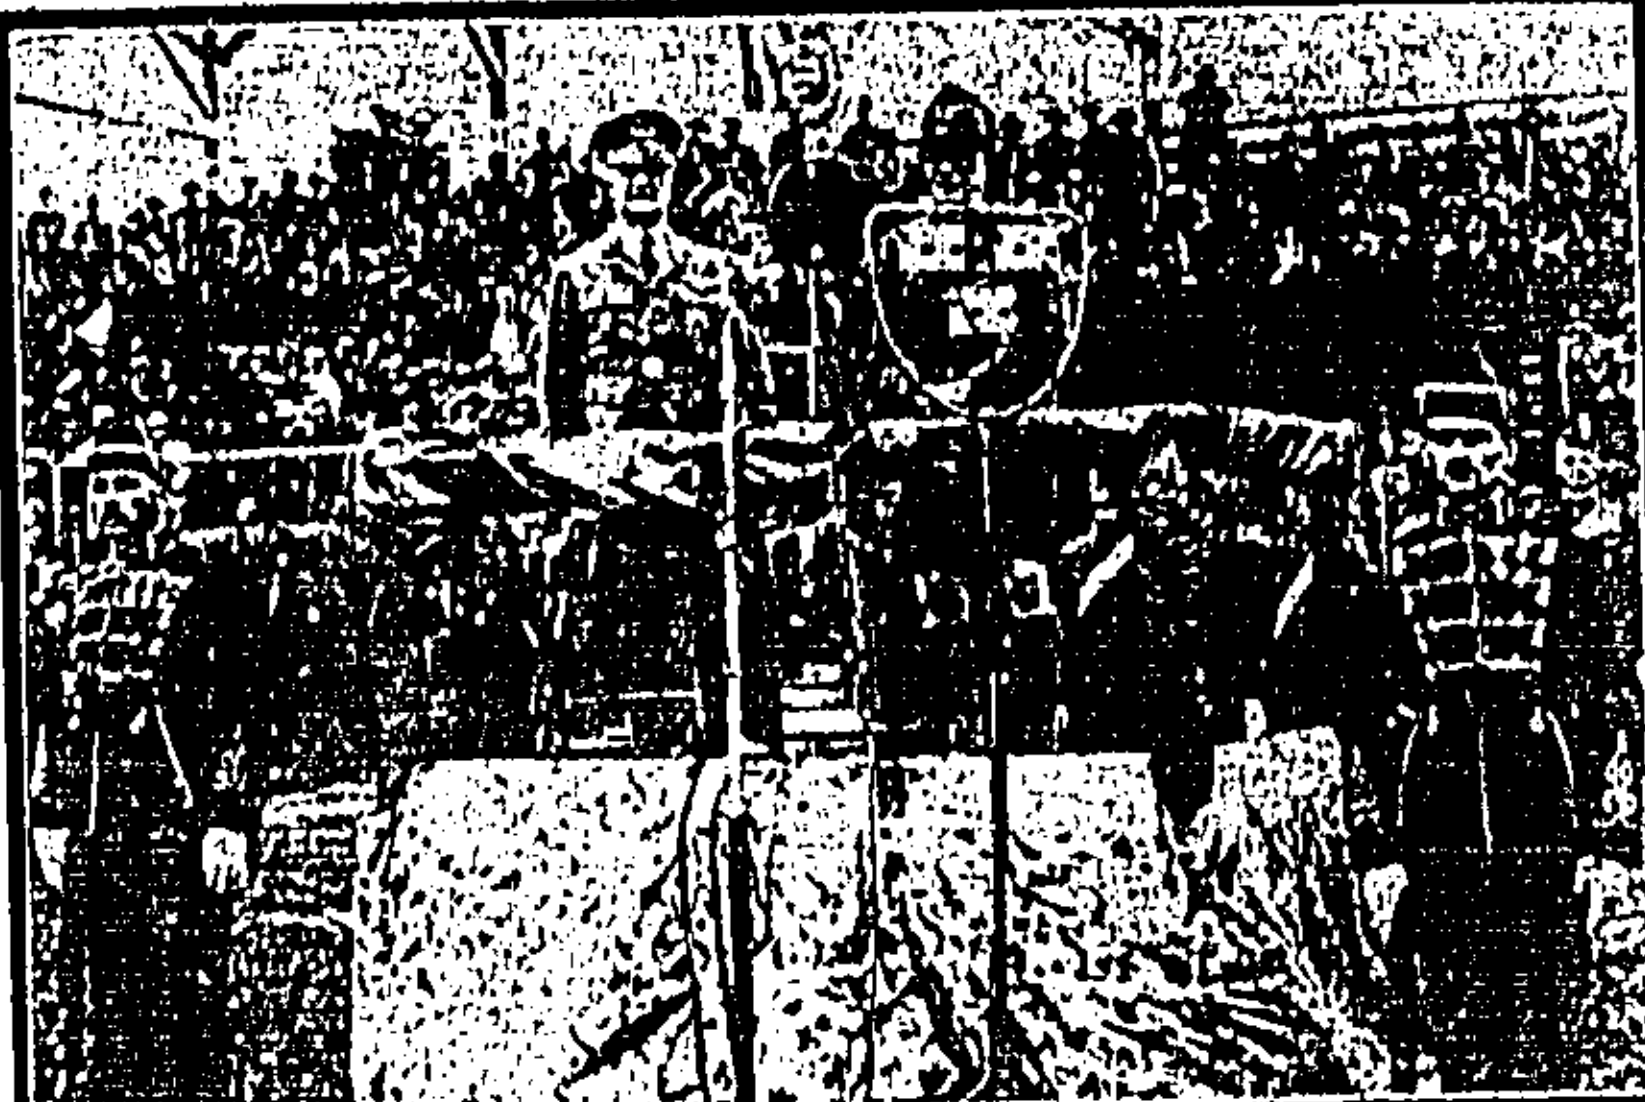

Five Ships Driven Ashore.

6 KILLED IN SANTA CLARA.

Miami, Florida, Yesterday. A trail of havoc is being left by the violent hurricane which swept up the Caribbean Sea to Miami, yesterday, after causing widespread damage in north Cuba.

Six people were killed and many injured at Santa Clara, Cuba, where considerable damage was done to piers and ships. Five ships, including two British vessels, were driven ashore at Miami, while two others were stranded off the coast of Cuba.

Sweeping down on Havana at 70 miles per hour, the hurricane caused a panic throughout the city, where communications were wrecked.

LADY BATHER ATTACKED AT LAICHIKOK

Miss da Cruz Cut With Chopper.

SOLDIER HELPS TO CAPTURE ASSAILANT.

A terrifying experience met Miss S. da Cruz, yesterday afternoon, when a Chinese, believed to be mentally deficient, attacked her with a chopper at Laichikok beach. Miss da Cruz's brother, who ran to her assistance, was slightly wounded, but neither he nor his sister were detained at the hospital.

Miss da Cruz, who resides at No. 12, Granville Road, Kowloon, her brother and a friend, went to Laichikok to swim. After leaving the water, she walked up the sandy path from the beach when she was approached by the Chinese, a folk named Chiu Ho.

Without warning, the man made a slash at her with a hatchet which he was carrying in his hand, inflicting a deep cut in the middle finger of Miss Cruz's right hand. Her brother, who was following close behind ran to her assistance, and received a slight wound in the neck.

A Chinese detective from Yau-mai Police Station, C88, who was on special duty at the beach, was attracted by shouts, and assisted by Private J. Crawford of the Lincolnshire Regiment, overpowered the assailant.

RAIN AT LAST

But Only A Slight Shower.

TYPHOON 550 MILES FROM COLONY.

The record dry spell was broken late yesterday afternoon when slight and partial rain fell. The fall, however was not sufficient to be recorded. It is now 16½ days since any fall was recorded.

The total rainfall since January 1, is 40.51 inches, against an average of 66.81 inches.

The typhoon is now situated more than 650 miles north of the Colony, and according to the weather report issued from the Royal Observatory at 5.30 p.m. yesterday, it was 150 miles south-east of Shanghai, and moving north-west.

Fair to showery weather is forecast for the holiday, with moderate south-west winds.

MR. ARTHUR HENDERSON ELECTED

Regains Seat In Commons.

London, Yesterday.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, President of the Disarmament Conference who on August 30 was nominated Parliamentary Labour candidate for the Clay Cross Division of Derbyshire, yesterday secured his seat by a majority of 15,630 votes.

The polling was as follows:—
Mr. Henderson (Labour), 21,931 votes.

Mr. Moore (Nationalist), 6,293 votes.

Mr. Pollitt (Communist), 3,434 votes.—Reuter.

The vacancy was due to the death of Mr. C. Duncan, the Labour member, who defeated Mr. J. Weinbers (National Liberal) in the last General Election by 21,163 votes to 11,611.

Mr. Henderson was Foreign Secretary from 1919 to 1931, when he took over the leadership of the Labour Party from Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. At the General Election, when Mr. Henderson lost his seat in the House, Mr. George Lansbury was nominated as Leader.

DECK TORN APART

MEN BLOWN OVERBOARD ON ATHELQUEEN

Terrific Force Of Explosion.

CHIEF OFFICER'S BODY IDENTIFIED.

Tokyo, Yesterday.

The bodies of three of the victims of the explosion on board the British tanker, "Athelqueen," are believed to have been found. One of the bodies is identified as that of the Chief Officer, Mr. M. O. Putt. The other two bodies, which owing to their mutilated condition are also thought to be victims of the tragedy, were picked up off Chiba, this afternoon.

A vivid description of the disaster, which caused the loss of five lives, was given immediately after the vessel returned to Yokohama.

The explosion occurred while water was being poured into the empty No. 2 tank, which was being cleaned out. The victims were all on deck at the time, and were blown overboard as the heavy metal deck was torn apart by the blast. The force of the explosion blew off their arms and legs.

A gaping hole, 40 feet long in the deck, was the principal damage done to the ship, which will be docked in Yokohama for repairs.

The vessel, which is one of the fleet of tankers employed by the United Molasses Company, London, for the transport of molasses and petroleum in bulk, left Yokohama yesterday morning, after unloading a cargo of oil from the No. 2 Hold.

The cause of the explosion was spontaneous combustion of gas.

She is commanded by Captain Lancelotti, and carries a crew of 41. The victims, all of whom are Europeans are:—

Mr. S. G. Knott, the Chief Engineer;

Mr. M. O. Putt, the first mate;

Mr. A. M. Rae, 21, an apprentice;

Mr. M. Johnson, ship's carpenter;

Mr. W. Read, deck hand.

MARTIAL LAW IN FOOCHOW.

Extremely Serious Situation.

MENACE OF "REDS"

Foocchow, Yesterday. The Fukien Provincial Government is holding the Fukien forces under Generals Lu Hsing Pang and Liu Ho Ting responsible for the wide-spread menace of "Reds" in north-west Fukien, where they are assigned with garrison duties.

The local authorities still refuse to admit the fall of Yenping, but the situation is, undoubtedly, extremely serious.

The city of Foocchow has been placed under martial law, and private houses, if fall under the suspicion of the police, are subject to strict search.

Chapter IV.—IN OLD DELHI.

(By GERALD BURRARD)

IT was nearly midnight, but the platform was thronged. Geoffrey had wired to his old friend Brandon, the District Superintendent of Police, warning him of his arrival, and asking for a room. He had no wish to go to any hotel, and, besides, Brandon might be able to help him. The policeman was on the platform, and Geoffrey and Sher Khan were soon installed in his comfortable bungalow beyond the ridge Brandon had been instructed by code that Geoffrey was to be the new Secret Service agent for the dangerous task, but could give no material help. The society was full of activity and seemed to have unlimited money behind it, but no clue had as yet been found.

When Brandon saw the ideograph on the knife he whistled:

"By the beard of the Prophet, as our friend Snar Khan would say, but I believe that you have at last given us a clue. Do you know Bulbul's shop in the Chand Chowk? No?—Well, perhaps you wouldn't unless you're keen on good jewellery. As it happens, I am, and the man is a real artist in his line. I have always believed him to be a scoundrel, and we have long suspected him as having something to do with this secret gang, but we have never had a shadow of proof of any description. Well, I was in his place not so long ago, and saw a small gold button mounted on a brooch. It was a beautiful piece of work—Celtic—and it attracted me. But Bulbul told me it was not for sale; had been brought in for repairs by an American collector or something. I did not pay much attention. But what I do remember is the ideograph on it. You know I went in for Hindustani once. Thought it might come in useful. And I believe it has. For the ideograph on the brooch is identical with the one on your knife! I am absolutely positive of it."

"Heavens alive! Then the man Bulbul must know what the ideograph means. Otherwise he would never have told you that he about an American. And if he knows, he must be in the show. He would not be trusted otherwise. Perhaps we could find something out from him by using the knife as a passport or something. No, I tell you what—Geoffrey could hardly restrain his excitement—"I will get myself up as a native—you know I can speak the language well enough—and will pretend to be one of the gang."

"Yes, yes. But you must not go alone. I will come, too."

"No, I think not. This is my pigeon, old man. And, besides, I would feel safer if I knew that you were at hand outside ready to come to my assistance in case of need."

"I don't like the idea of your going alone, I must say. But perhaps I might be of more use outside. It would be a mistake to stake the whole of our forces together in one venture. Could you take Sher Khan? Anyhow, let's ask his opinion on the matter."

The Pathan gave his cordial approval to the plan provided he was allowed to accompany Geoffrey. "I will disguise you as a fellow-Pathan, and you will wear a green turban of a hadji. We will talk in Pushtu. I doubt whether there will be many from across the border with these Tibertan infidels."

Thus, it was arranged, and the next evening two obvious Pathans, one of whom wore the green turban denoting that the wearer had made his pilgrimage to Mecca, might have been seen entering the shop of the Indian Jeweller in the Chand Chowk, a street famous throughout the world for the treasures which were hidden along its length.

Bulbul looked up as they pushed their way in with all the self-assurance of a fighting race. Geoffrey showed the captured knife in a nonchalant manner, saying, "We have come."

The Indian glanced at the knife and then blinked at them through his horn spectacles.

"Why so early? We were not summoned until midnight."

Geoffrey's heart almost missed a beat at the amazing luck which was attending their bold venture.

"True. But we have come a long way, and we thought we would come to show that we had arrived, especially as we know not Delhi well. Our work lies mostly across the border."

Bulbul nodded and Geoffrey went on, "We will go back for our evening meal, and will return again at the appointed hour."

The Indian again nodded, and took no further heed of his visitors they strode out of his shop.

"Our luck is in to-night, sahib," whispered Sher Khan "never did I dare hope for such good fortune."

The hours slipped by slowly. Geoffrey did not like to risk a return to Brandon's bungalow, and he knew that Bulbul's shop was being watched by the police until he reported that all was well. He and his companion accordingly purchased some hot food in the bazaar, and passed the time talking in subdued whispers, while lying on the open space between the Jumma Masjid and the fort.

At length the time for action arrived, and they once more entered the shop in the Chand Chowk. Bulbul welcomed them with a nod, and took them down a long, dark passage. There was a heavy door at the end, and beyond this some thick curtains. Geoffrey and Sher Khan then found themselves in a good-sized room which was full of men. Bulbul locked the door behind them and called out, "They have arrived. We can now begin."

Remembering that a wise general ever prepares a possible line of retreat, Geoffrey squatted down as near the door as possible and Sher Khan followed his example, while Bulbul walked across the room and seated himself on a pile of cushions. Almost every part of India was represented in the room. There were Burmans and Balts, Parsees and Punjabis, Maharattas and Guzeratis, Bengalis and Sikhs. The Bengalis were in the majority, but there were nearly as many Tibetans in all there must have been nearly a hundred gathered together in Chan Fen's den. To his relief, Geoffrey saw no other Pathans.

There was a hubbub of talk, and then at last Bulbul spoke in Urdu. "I have summoned you here to-night because it is an order from the wise one in England. He bids me tell you that once again the English are sending an officer to try to find our lair, and the temple where is our hidden treasure. It was hoped that this officer should have died before he reached Bombay, but our luck has been evil. The wise one tells me his name is Barrakko, and that he is a colonel of the Engineers. He has travelled much in China and Tibet. He is a bold fighter and by no means to be despised. We know not what his plans will be. But the order is that he is to die. The Tiger of Tibet has given the order, and we must obey. Failure is death. This Barrakko killed one of us at Port Said, but one escaped. He had failed, and his punishment was just."

A Bengali then chimed in, "Why not kill him now if he is in Delhi? Surely he can be poisoned?"

"Before anyone could answer such an apparently easy question, the whole assembly were startled by a decided knock on the door."

Bulbul immediately raised his hand for silence, and as the knock was repeated he crossed the room again and opened the door a few inches. Sher Khan was close behind him and looked over his shoulder. Suddenly Geoffrey saw the big Pathan stiffen and spring.

Bulbul was rudely knocked aside, and there was the thud of something falling on the stone floor of the passage. It sounded soft and heavy. A choking gurgle, and then silence. Sher Khan once more stepped into the light, and Geoffrey saw that he was calmly wiping his long knife.

Bulbul was ablaze with fury. "How darest thou—?" he began, when Sher Khan beckoned for silence.

Mainly for Women

Colour. In The Spark Of Life

BY KRISAKURT

WE have heard a great deal about chromo-therapy, as it is called, being allied to heliotherapy or sun-healing since the illness of the King. It is an interesting subject, and worth discussing. The subject is not a new one when we learn that Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, used the sunlight.

In London I saw a demonstration of the electronic instrument which the inventor claimed recorded body vibrations not only in health, but also in different diseases. Thus disease could be diagnosed, and more could be healed by this instrument, altering the vibration frequency to that of health. The prospect is most intriguing—no more poor doctors bewailing that cases are beyond them. The pointer of this omniscient instrument will register so many millions of vibrations, and the doctor triumphantly points to the disease opposite that figure in his book with "There you are, you can see for yourself." Then together they work out the mathematical problem of how this vibration-rate is to be raised or lowered. The Electronic instrument hums, and there you are feeling better already. This seems fantastical, but several specialists obtained the instrument. Alas, the personal variation in health as well as disease was so infinite that no formula based on even many recordings was possible.

At least it called attention to the indubitable fact of body vibration, and that these were altered in disease.

Now let us see how colour healers apply this. They say that this constant vibration of the body of anyone—expresses and characterizes his soul or "psyche" which presides over, and controls and animates his life currents and processes physical, mental, and spiritual. They further hold that every disease begins and ends in the "psyche" being the result of wrong thinking and feeling under some undue strain or repression. This warping of the spirit physically manifests itself in disease, and so can actually, they say, disturb the very vital processes, produce even toxins, and go on to change the structure of organs, vessels, and tissues. Their cure for disease therefore, is to tune up the vibrations of the soul, or mind, so that the trio of body, soul, and spirit shall co-operate harmoniously as do the chords of a harp. In such harmony alone lies health. The scientific rational advanced by colour healers is that by means of colours, with their different rates of vibration being brought to play on different regions of the body, they can tune up these chords, reinforcing a defective vibration in one, and curbing a shrieking one in another.

The seven colours in the spectrum they divide thus, red, infra-red, and orange give most heat. Yellow and green most light, while blue, violet, and ultra-violet are the most active or chemically active. And each colour has its special effect upon the body. A well known, and wise medical man told me he could not see anything unreasonable or dangerous in colour healing, but of this he was sure, that we do not study half enough the effect which the colour schemes of our homes, and of our attire may have upon our tempers and characters. Also it has been found in New Zealand where so much valuable research work is being done that this sun-healing property, and health giving colour is contained in fruits, vegetables, milk, honey and animals who eat the "sun-kissed" feed.

Another valuable development in medical research was the discovery of the Enzyme, the theory of which has been promulgated by Sir Truby King since the founding of the Child Welfare Society. Another result of scientific research has proved that the soil of New Zealand contained the largest percentage of mineral salts than the soil of any other country. These are the reasons why all New Zealand foodstuffs come first in excellence of quality, and the Government makes itself responsible for seeing that exported products conform to required standards. For instance "Ankorin" the scientifically prepared food for babies is so produced as to contain the living ferment of enzyme, and "Ankorin" is considered the most balanced ration of any known baby food. It is specially prepared by the Spray process which breaks up the tough curd in the milk powder, and this makes it more digestible for the infant. Most other baby foods have not had this tough curd broken up, and it is a serious tax on the digestion of the child. Then in addition, a violet-rayed pure cod oil has been incorporated with the milk powder. It is in the right proportion required by the baby's system, and no extra cod oil must be given to a baby who is being fed on "Ankorin". The cod oil is in a concentrated form, and so has "no taste."

Other New Zealand food products containing all the life giving elements which are now available in Hong Kong are "Snowflake" full cream evaporated milk, and "Snowflake" condensed milk. This is the natural colour of the pure rich milk of Jersey cows.

Kapiti Honey has earned a right to a foremost place on every family table. New Zealand has often been called "The Isle of Honey" on account of the abundance of the right kind of health giving flora which abounds in bush, and gardens, and orchards throughout the land. Whittemore Fruit Juices are to be highly commended. They are the pure undiluted fruit. The New Zealand Pure Food Act will not permit the use of any chemical dyes. So the juice of Whittemore is the pure fruit with its natural colouring. There is Orange, Raspberry, Lemon, and Passion fruit.

During this season of the year there is nothing more tasty or palatable, as well as nourishing as the New Zealand "C.M.C. Ox Tongues," and "Hellaby's Cooked Hams" with the flavour sealed. They come straight from the boiler to your table without exposure in open markets, and they retain all their natural juices, and fats.

Maxam Cheese is also of importance because of its high nutritive value and because of the appetizing flavour of this pure full cream milk cheese. Do not deprive yourself, or your family of these life giving foods that contain in their pure production, the spark of life.

Right Way To Wash Chamois Gloves

Saving Expense.

CHAMOIS leather gloves are an expensive item, and it is a good thing to know how to wash them without doing any harm.

Use soft, tepid, soapy water. Put the gloves on the hands, and rub them as though you were shaking hands with yourself. Pay special attention to the most grubby parts, in order to get rid of dirty marks. Change the water, still keeping it lathered, for the rinsing.

Squeeze as much moisture as possible from the skins, and rub together again, until the soap residue forms a covering. Then in the palms of the hands put a few drops of olive oil, and rub this well in all over.

Gently take the gloves from the hands, and turn them inside out, blow into the fingers to puff them out, and prevent the leather drying together. Hang them out in the air to dry; if dried indoors, do not place them near a fierce heat.

When dry turn them right way out, give them a gentle rub to soften them, and they will look like new.

Avoid Brilliant Fingernails

Bizarre Colours That Spoil Beauty.

"PAINFUL" SHADE OF RED

TODAY'S woman, a beautiful, free, straight-lined type developed since the Great War, has nothing to fear from temporary invasion of the curvaceous, Florida type of woman who has arrived in the wake of leg-o-mutton sleeves, pinch waists, and hen-nest hats.

So says McClelland Barclay, the noted magazine illustrator, and authority on feminine beauty. He is conferring with Paramount studio officials on the standard of measurements for contestants in the worldwide search for beauty, by which 15 girls and 15 men will be brought to Hollywood from all English-speaking countries for the picture, "The Search for Beauty."

"The dollar-sign figure favoured by our manly forebears of the past generation is no more than a passing fad," Barclay says. "The beautiful woman will continue to be extremely slender—almost harsh in lines—with, perhaps, wider shoulders but narrow hips."

U. S. AUTHORITY'S VIEW

Finger-Nail Care Important

Cuticle Softness Not Harmful.

ABOUT nail preparations. Women sometimes wonder whether cuticle softeners and removers used in shaping the oval out-line of the nails are harmful. No. In the first place these preparations do not "eat away" the cuticle. They merely soften the horny skin, just as washing the skin with soap softens up the skin to degrease.

In manœuvring your nails with a cuticle remover you soften the skin and while it is soft you can wipe away the dead scaly scraps, and push back the cuticle which tends to grow over the nail.

Other women ask whether continual use of liquid polish injures the nail. No. You may notice when you remove the old polish that the nail looks soft and dull. This is because having been protected for days by the coating of polish, the nail surface has not been subjected to the usual friction which keeps it worn down to a hard and slightly glossy appearance when you go without polish.

To keep liquid polish from peeling you must have your nail absolutely free from oil or grease before brushing on a liquid polish. Moisture on the nail will make it turn white and cloudy, just as water can make furniture lacquer turn white.

Paris Ordains Wide Beach Hats

HATS shown with beach dresses are enormously wide of brim and are made of pique, Chantrel and linen. Those that have practically no crown are fixed to bandeaux that tie around the head.

We've mentioned red and white striped linen used to create a decorative effect when the stripes are gathered into two twists in front, following the lines of the figure for the small bodice which is nothing but a couple of shoulder straps at the back, and for the wide skirt. The bodice part of this dress is separate, and can be worn with a pair of dark blue wool jersey trousers.

Red, white and blue still is a good and favorite combination, and summer materials show Chantrel, either plain or embroidered, pique Mousseline de sole printed with small designs, and the Chanel embroidered muslins as bell-ringers.

MRS. SCHREUDER'S "TREBLE" : BOWLING GREEN WIN TITLE

PAGET AND SOARES WIN OPEN EVENTS

Lionel Roza-Pereira's Brilliant Effort.

V.R.C. AQUATIC GALA.

T. Paget and J. R. Soares, members of the V.R.C., won the two championship events open to the Colony at the Victoria Recreation Club's swimming gala last night.

Paget improved on F. Webb's distance of 62 ft 7 ins in the Throwing the Polo Ball event last year by recording 68 ft. He was, however, 10½ ft outside R. Coleman's Colony record. His best effort was his first throw, his second and third registering 67 and 64 ft.

B. Gosano, the well-known Colony and St. Joseph's footballer, held second place with 59½ ft. until W. Lawrence, with his last throw, distanced 61 ft.

Soares proved an easy winner in the Long Plunge, beating J. A. Victor, who has had little opportunity of training owing to his recent return from the North, by 3 ft. 4 ins.

Soares distanced 55 ft. at his first attempt and recorded the winning distance at his second effort. His distance was 6 ft. 3 ins. short of S. H. Garrod's record last year, and 11 ft. 6 ins. off C. J. Cooke's Colony record.

Victor improved on his first attempt, by 8 ft. 5 ins. E. A. V. Remedios was third with 49 ft. 6 ins. and was followed by Lal Sze Chui, the Chinese Athletic entrant, with 46 ft. and J. A. de V. Soares with 41 ft.

The quarter mile handicap for "A" Class swimmers provided the best event of the evening when Lionel Roza Pereira, who went at 35, snatched a dramatic win from E. B. Roza, to whom he conceded 15 seconds, in the last 20 yards. Roza-Pereira jumped into second place after 14 lengths and swam neck and neck with Roza before he burst through to win by a narrow margin.

Remedios' Team Triumph. In the inter-members' water polo game H. M. Remedios' team beat that of M. M. de V. Soares by 5 goals to 2 after leading 2-1 at the interval.

The teams were: M. M. de V. Soares (capt.), G. J. Smith, N. Delgado, A. A. Gutierrez, L. Roza-Pereira, A. A. Roza, and F. W. Ambrose. B. Gosano, E. L. Gosano, S. E. Souza, H. M. Remedios, C. Roza-Pereira, A. McGinn, and W. Lawrence. A. A. Roza was the only competitor to finish in a big entry in the novelty race, which followed Edward Roza's brilliant diving exhibition.

At the conclusion of the aquatic events which were witnessed by Commander Elliott, the Commodore, and party, Mrs. Atkinson, wife of Major Atkinson, distributed the trophies.

Dancing to the strains of Mickey's Melody Makers continued till the early hours of the morning.

The following were the results: CHAMPIONSHIP EVENTS OPEN TO THE COLONY.

1. T. Paget (V.R.C.)
Distances: 68 ft. and 61 ft.
2. W. Lawrence (V.R.C.)
Also competed: M. M. de V. Soares (V.R.C.), B. Gosano (V.R.C.), Lal Sze Chui (Chinese Athletic) and D. Leonard (V.R.C.) Long Plunge.

1. J. R. Soares (V.R.C.)
2. J. A. Victor (V.R.C.)
Distances: 55 ft. 6 ins., and 52 ft. 2 ins.
Also competed: Lal Sze Chui (Chinese Athletic), and E. A. V. Remedios and J. A. de V. Soares of the V.R.C.

LANGE BREAKS OWN BATH RECORD

Y.M.C.A. TRIUMPH IN BOTH RELAY RACES

KWOK'S "DOUBLE" ON CONCLUDING NIGHT OF CHAMPIONSHIPS

MRS. A. C. SCHREUDER completed her "treble" in the Hong Kong International Amateur Swimming Association Championships in the Y.M.C.A. bath last night when she beat Mrs. Read by seven yards in the 100 Yards Free Style before 200 spectators.

H. Lange, another Y.M.C.A. entrant, shattered his own bath record in the 220 Yards Free Style when he spotted W. T. Campbell's chances for the "treble." Two further successes secured by the Y.M.C.A. were recorded in the Relay races in which both teams clocked excellent times.

The Chinese caused much surprise when they carried off both diving events, and Kwok Chun Hang provided a mild sensation when he completed his "double" at the expense of Leung Shui Man in the 100 Yards Back Stroke.

Among the official guests at the special gala which concluded the 1933 Championships were Major-General O. C. Borrett, C.B., C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., Officer Commanding the British troops in China, and Mrs. Borrett, Lt.-Col. G. T. Raikes, D.S.O., Officer Commanding the 1st Bn. South Wales Borderers, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McPherson, Mr. J. H. Hunt, O.B.E., and Mrs. Hunt, Mr. Y. K. Mok, Chairman of the Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation and the H.K.I.A.S.A., and Mrs. Mok, Mr. Kwok Chan, President of the Chinese Bathing Club, and Mrs. Chan.

SWIMMING a brilliantly judged race H. Lange (Y.M.C.A.) recorded his first win in the Championships, when he spotted W. T. Campbell's chances of securing the "treble" by winning the Men's 220 Yards in the excellent time of 2 mins. 42-3/5 seconds, which is a new bath record.

Campbell (Y.M.C.A.), who was second, and Tsang Ho-fook (C.B.C.) both recorded times within the old bath record of 2 mins. 53 secs.

Chan Fook-sing took an early lead, but after three lengths he was forced to give way to Lange who passed him at the third turning with Campbell close on his heels.

Nearing the finish Lange sprinted and took a substantial lead over Campbell, while Tsang Ho-fook (C.B.C.) overhauled Chan Fook-sing.

Lange touched seven yards in front of Campbell, who beat Tsang Ho-fook by a touch.

Mr. Schreuder's "Treble". The Ladies' 100 Yards Championship provided Mrs. A. C. Schreuder (Y.M.C.A.), with her "triple." Though fully extended by Mrs. S. Read, she won a very fine race in the last length by 8 yards; the latter beat Miss Yeung Sau-chun (S.C.A.A.) by the same margin for second place.

This first length saw both Mrs. Schreuder and Mrs. Read swimming strongly, with the Dutch lady slightly in the lead.

In the third length Mrs. Schreuder was fully extended by Mrs. Read, the latter doing her utmost to keep up with her rival. Miss Yeung Sau-chun (S.C.A.A.), sister of the well-known Chinese lady champion, was trailing behind with several yards separating her from Mrs. Read.

The last length saw Mrs. Schreuder draw away from Maude George-Read to win by a substantial margin.

Chinese Diving Success. The Ladies' Diving only produced two entrants as Miss Yeung Shu-king and Miss Chan Yuk-fai (C.B.C.) both scratched from the event.

Miss J. Wilson, showed signs of nervousness and failed to make use of the many hints given her recently, while the winner, Miss Ng Shu-ying, of the Chinese Civil Servants' Swimming Club, displayed excellent talent.

CIVIL SERVICE LOSE BY 15 SHOTS

K.B.G.C.'S THIRD TITLE WIN

W. V. FIELD'S RECORD

WINNING on all three rinks the Kowloon Bowling Green defeated the Civil Service by 15 shots in the play-off for the premier bowls league title on the Recreo green yesterday afternoon. This was their first championship triumph since 1922; they had previously won the title in 1920.

The Civil Servants, who caused a sensation by beating Craigen-gower last Saturday, succeeded in going closer to winning the championship this year than on any previous occasion in the history of the Club.

The records of the two Clubs this season were as follows:—

	P	W	L	Shots	P	A	Up	Dn	Pts.
Bowling Green (8)	15	10	5	923	810	113	0	20
Civil Service (3)	15	9	6	868	848	20	0	18

The figures in brackets denote the position held by the Club at the conclusion of last season.

VALLEY GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Four Players Favoured For Title To-day.

O. E. C. Marton, A. E. Lissaman, F. T. Hunter, and L. R. Andrews are the favourites for Happy Valley golf championship, which will commence to-day.

The arrangements for the afternoon starting times have been revised and now read as under: Players can book their own afternoon times, but must begin their afternoon round before 4 p.m., and within four hours of concluding their morning round. Times booked will be approximately only as those who have not begun their afternoon round will necessarily tee up alternately with those who have completed nine holes.

Ladies may not play at all today at the Valley. Competitors in the Championship have precedence over all other players to-day.

CHINA WIN THE ROTARY CUP.

Portugal Beaten By 3 To 1.

SHANGHAI TENNIS.

Shanghai, Aug. 28. China successfully defended the title and won the coveted Shanghai Rotary Club trophy for the fourth consecutive year yesterday afternoon when V. T. Wong, the Chinese singles champion, defeated B. V. de Senna, of Portugal in the vital singles match of the final round of the international tennis tournament by 6-1, 6-0 and 6-1 to obtain the necessary odds in the five match series.

The other singles, between H. Colloco and C. C. "Gay" Cheng was abruptly stopped on account of the sudden downpour, with Colloco winning the opening set 6-4 and losing the second set to his adversary by 5-7.

The earlier results were: Guy Cheng (China) beat B. V. de Senna 6-4, 6-3, 6-1. H. Colloco (Portugal) beat V. T. Wong 6-3, 6-4, 6-7. Guy Cheng and T. K. Yui (China) beat S. Colloco and Didi Costa 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

SPALDING for Speed

The all-important factor in modern lawn tennis is speed and yet more speed. Other things being equal the man with that extra speed wins the match.

The new Spalding laminated multi-ply rackets are the fastest and most powerful ever produced. They can be strung to the highest possible tension without risk of warping thus giving tremendous pace to the ball as it leaves the racket.

The Spalding range of rackets for 1933 comprises seventeen attractive models at prices to suit all purses.

PACKARD

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

"STYLE," as applied to the Packard, has always meant something more. Associated with it, logically and distinctively, is the other important word, "enduring"—a Packard characteristic for a third of a century. So gradually and correctly has Packard style evolved—like the slow unfolding of a beautiful flower—it has never been at the mercy of that capricious mood which too often alienates to-morrow's style from that of to-day.

Currency Stabilisation.

NO business was transacted; it was merely a social gathering. In these words President Roosevelt described his conference with Mr. Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England. But any meeting between two such men, one the virtual Dictator of America, and the other the virtual Dictator of Britain's monetary policy, is of some moment, and the monetary crisis which is now threatening the world, gives the meeting in New York an added significance. The stabilisation of the dollar and the pound sterling, which Mr. Norman is said to favour, was discussed, while it is understood that the conversations also included the proposal for the formation of an international stabilisation pool. Owing to the secrecy surrounding the meeting, which was also attended by Mr. Harrison, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, it is difficult to assume the results of the conference. But while no immediate decision was reached there is little doubt that the exchange of views will influence the future monetary policies of Britain and the United States. These policies will have to be decided in the near future, as prevailing in international finance will precipitate a crisis of some magnitude in both economic and financial spheres. The dollar and sterling continue to depreciate, and rumours that France and Holland may be forced off the gold standard are becoming more frequent. The only important member of the small gold bloc group which appears unperturbed by the unsettling foreign exchange fluctuations is Italy, but Italian export trade is comparatively small. Gold quotations reached a new record on the London stock exchange on Friday when the price soared to 130s. 8½d. per ounce, the highest price in history. The rise is attributed to hoarding and foreign distrust of non-gold currencies. Stabilisation of the dollar and the pound was proposed shortly before the World Economic Conference developed her inflation programme the dollar slumped rapidly and in July actually dropped slightly below the par rate of $4.86. Since $4.50 and $4.80. A definite decision by the United States administration on monetary policy must be made soon, but in the meantime President Roosevelt is attempting to judge the effects of his "Prosperity Push." Opinions are diverse, and while some maintain that further inflation will be needed as a stimulus to the National Recovery Programme, others contend that the beneficial effects to industry throughout the country through the general raising of prices will obviate any necessity for further artificial measures. Another factor which will influence the President is that action is demanded to stimulate America's export trade, development of which has been neglected of late, efforts of the Recovery Administration having been concentrated on domestic business.

While many difficulties have been experienced the Recovery Campaign has progressed in a very satisfactory manner until now, and the prospects are encouraging. Over 2,000,000 have been re-employed, and more machinery has been put into use, and signs are clearly visible of an industrial revival. The strikes that have occurred have been settled without undue disorder and most of the difficulties between employers and employees have been smoothed out. Some industrial magnates, notably Mr. Henry Ford, are still opposing General Johnson, but it is improbable that they will be permitted to act independently much longer. It is claimed that 80 per cent. of the nation's industries are operating under the Codes, and the indications are that the confidence held in the President will bring about complete support for the campaign. What the ultimate outcome of this great economic experiment will be is a matter for conjecture, even among economic experts, but, as America is definitely embarked on that policy, it is pleasing to note the success during the initial stages. While the results are encouraging no further inflation will be demanded and thus the way will be cleared for currency stabilisation—at least between America and Britain. Other nations may join an international stabilisation pool, leading eventually to settlement of the problem which was responsible for the breakdown of the World Economic Conference. Thus, indirectly, one of the objects of the Conference may be achieved within the next few months.

QUILL PEN THING OF THE PAST.

Only One Now Used On British Bench.

FOUNTAIN PENS IN COMMONS.

London. When Mr. Justice Atkinson, the new High Court Judge, signed the oath at his swearing-in, he used an ordinary steel pen.

This action marks yet another stage in the passing of the quill whose scratching was a familiar sound all over Europe only 50 years ago.

Not so many years ago, no Judge would have dreamt of signing any official document with anything but a quill pen.

Now, of all the Judges, only Lord Hanworth, Master of the Rolls, is known to sign documents with a quill. No King's Bench Division Judge has been seen to use a quill on the Bench in recent years. Most of them use a fountain pen.

One Judge, however, Sir Henry Dickens, the Common Serjeant, who retired recently, remained faithful to the tradition of the quill—perhaps in memory of his father, the great novelist, who wrote many of his works with such an instrument. Until the beginning of the war, every desk in the House of Commons was supplied with quills and members who did not carry a fountain pen were obliged to use them. But they have disappeared now.

Even the Treaty of Versailles was signed with fountain pens. And so, although quills, which were used as early as the 7th Century, may still be obtained at the Stationery Office, they are rapidly passing into oblivion.—Reuter.

TRICYCLE TOUR AS HONEYMOON.

Towed From Town By Wedding Guests.

Novara, Italy. A tandem tricycle was the vehicle chosen by Ernesto Re, a citizen of Novara, to take him and his bride on their honeymoon.

After the wedding, the couple mounted their tricycle, which guests had decorated with flowers, and rode down the main street towed for a mile out of the town by the best man, in a top-hat and mounted on a bicycle. The other guests, also on bicycles decked with flowers followed.

Several thousand people watched the start from the church.—Reuter.

JUMPED WITHOUT A PARACHUTE.

PERFORMING MONKEY MEETS SUDDEN END.

Madrid. An airman trained a monkey to take part in flying exhibitions. The monkey used to make parachute descents from his master's aeroplane.

One day the monkey looked out from his master's bedroom window high up in an hotel.

It must have reminded him of his "turn." He jumped—without his parachute.

An instant later the monkey lay dead on the pavement far below.—Reuter.

LONDON

from
OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

July 31.

Sir Malcolm Watson.

The scheme for the amalgamation of the Ross Institute of Tropical Diseases with the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, providing, as it does, for the establishment of a Ross Memorial Institute of Tropical Hygiene in the amalgamated body, has been happily framed.

A more excellent appointment to the first directorship of the new department than that of Sir Malcolm Watson, recommended in the scheme, could not be imagined. Sir Malcolm was the particular friend and disciple of Sir Ronald Ross and will maintain the tradition of his preceptor's teaching.

A Wonderful Record.

Sir Malcolm's own record in tropical medicine is notable. Apart from his work on malaria, he was the first to draw public attention to the dangers of the transit of yellow fever from Africa to the East.

He indicated the relation between malaria and dysentery, and was the first to note malaria crecants develop in human blood.

Emptying the Hospitals.

For stamping out an outbreak of cholera he received the thanks of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and his creation of a medical organisation for the rubber estates in Malaya was responsible for a substantial reduction in the death-rate, and resulted in the practical emptying of the hospitals. It is not too much to say that Sir Malcolm's work on malaria in Africa completely changed the medical outlook in that continent.

London's Oldest Lift.

The hydraulic lift to the ladies' gallery of the House of Commons, which is to be replaced during the recess by an electric lift, is not the oldest in London, though it is of very respectable antiquity.

Legend affirms that the pioneer distinction, belongs to a water-power elevator, which will be one of the relics of the past to vanish away when Adelphi-terrace is pulled down.

"Tiny" White.

The passing of "Tiny" White, one of the most famous—and certainly the richest—of the jockeys of his day is bound to recall the tragic death of the great Fred Archer to the minds of veteran sportsmen.

White, who was the smallest jockey riding, had the mount on the Sailor Prince in the Cambridge-shire of 1886. Fred Archer, who was 6ft tall, had to "waste" drastically to get down to 5ft 7 in. in order to ride St. Mirin. Even then he was 1 lb. overweight.

There was reputed to be a fortune at stake on St. Mirin, and a quarter of a mile from the winning post the two horses were having a desperate neck-and-neck struggle.

They flashed past the post locked together, and none but the judge could say which had won. The Sailor Prince got it.

A few days later Fred Archer, whose record of winning mounts in one season has never been beaten, fell ill as a result of his waning, and the tragedy of his death shocked the whole racing world.

"Tiny" White was 70 years old.

Prime Minister's Election.

The Prime Minister is greatly elated at the success of his efforts in ensuring that the Bannockburn relic—the Bannockburn Reliquary—has been saved for Scotland.

It may be recalled that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's personal appeal moved Lord Wakefield to go forward two years ago and to furnish $11,000 in order to win the historic Howard Grace Cup (associated with Thomas a Becket) for the Victoria and Albert Museum.

Bathing Costumes in the Stalls.

Recently was seen what had never been seen before—bathing costumes in the stalls of a London theatre. A party of four, two men and two women, were thus attired, and drove off later in an open car other railway companies.

to a bathing pool on one of the by-pass roads.

The costumes were discreetly shrouded for the men wore light overcoats and the women some sort of wrap. But they were telling their friends in the interval of their "courage," which is surely a precedent even for a heat-wave.

"Shaw Expelled."

A Paris paper announces that Mr. Shaw, who in his brief film appearances has shown himself well aware of what is demanded of a celebrity by way of deportment, is taking the title role in a film now being made in England, called "Shaw Expelled."

In it Mr. Shaw is seen arriving at Malvern (a Malvern) for the Festival. He tries to get into a hotel reserved for nobilities, but the door is banged in his face. He tries the back door, but is again rebuffed. Climbing in at the windows is also attempted, but without success.

Possibly there would be some mild fun in such a film. Mr. Shaw is a good actor, and at 77 is physically fit enough for buffoonery. But the whole thing is a myth.

Mr. Maxton's Portrait.

The Royal Academy closed its doors recently, and one of the most striking pictures in it, Sir John Lavery's portrait of Mr. Maxton, remained unsold. Sir John said that he would have liked Mr. Maxton's own party to have it, and that the price to the I.L.P. would be only £500. It would, of course, be more to anyone else.

At this point Lady Lavery broke in and said that if her portrait of Mr. Maxton had not been rejected by the Academy it would have sold long ago at a good price.

One feature of Sir John's portrait which has aroused comment is that—the subject's suit looks shabby almost to the point of raggedness. But one cannot imagine Mr. Maxton, who, apart from his political views, is no dandy, objecting to that.

To Administer Oath of Purity.

The post of Bath King of Arms, to which General Sir Walter Braithwaite has been appointed, is not attached to the College of Heraldry. Its holder is the second officer of the Order of the Bath, the first being the Great Master, at present the Duke of Connaught.

The only remaining function of the Bath King is to administer the oath of purity to new knights on their installation in the Order's own chapel of King Henry VII, in Westminster Abbey.

During this ceremony he wears a white satin mantle lined with a crimson cap.

Sir Walter will wear this costume well. In youth he was a talented amateur actor. Now, at 67, he challenges Lord Ruthven as the handsomest general in the Army List. He is tall, with almost white hair, a close-clipped moustache, and wrinkled, smiling eyes.

The First Peter Pan.

Miss Nina Boucicault, the Peter Pan of the original production in 1904, is to have a new experience of broadcasting shortly. She is to perform in "There's more magic in the air," a radio production based on the conception of Peter Pan in the home of broadcasting.

It happens that Miss Boucicault was born within a short distance of the site of Broadcasting House.

For the Waiting Hour.

The notion of installing news-reel theatres at the big railway stations began in Paris some two years ago.

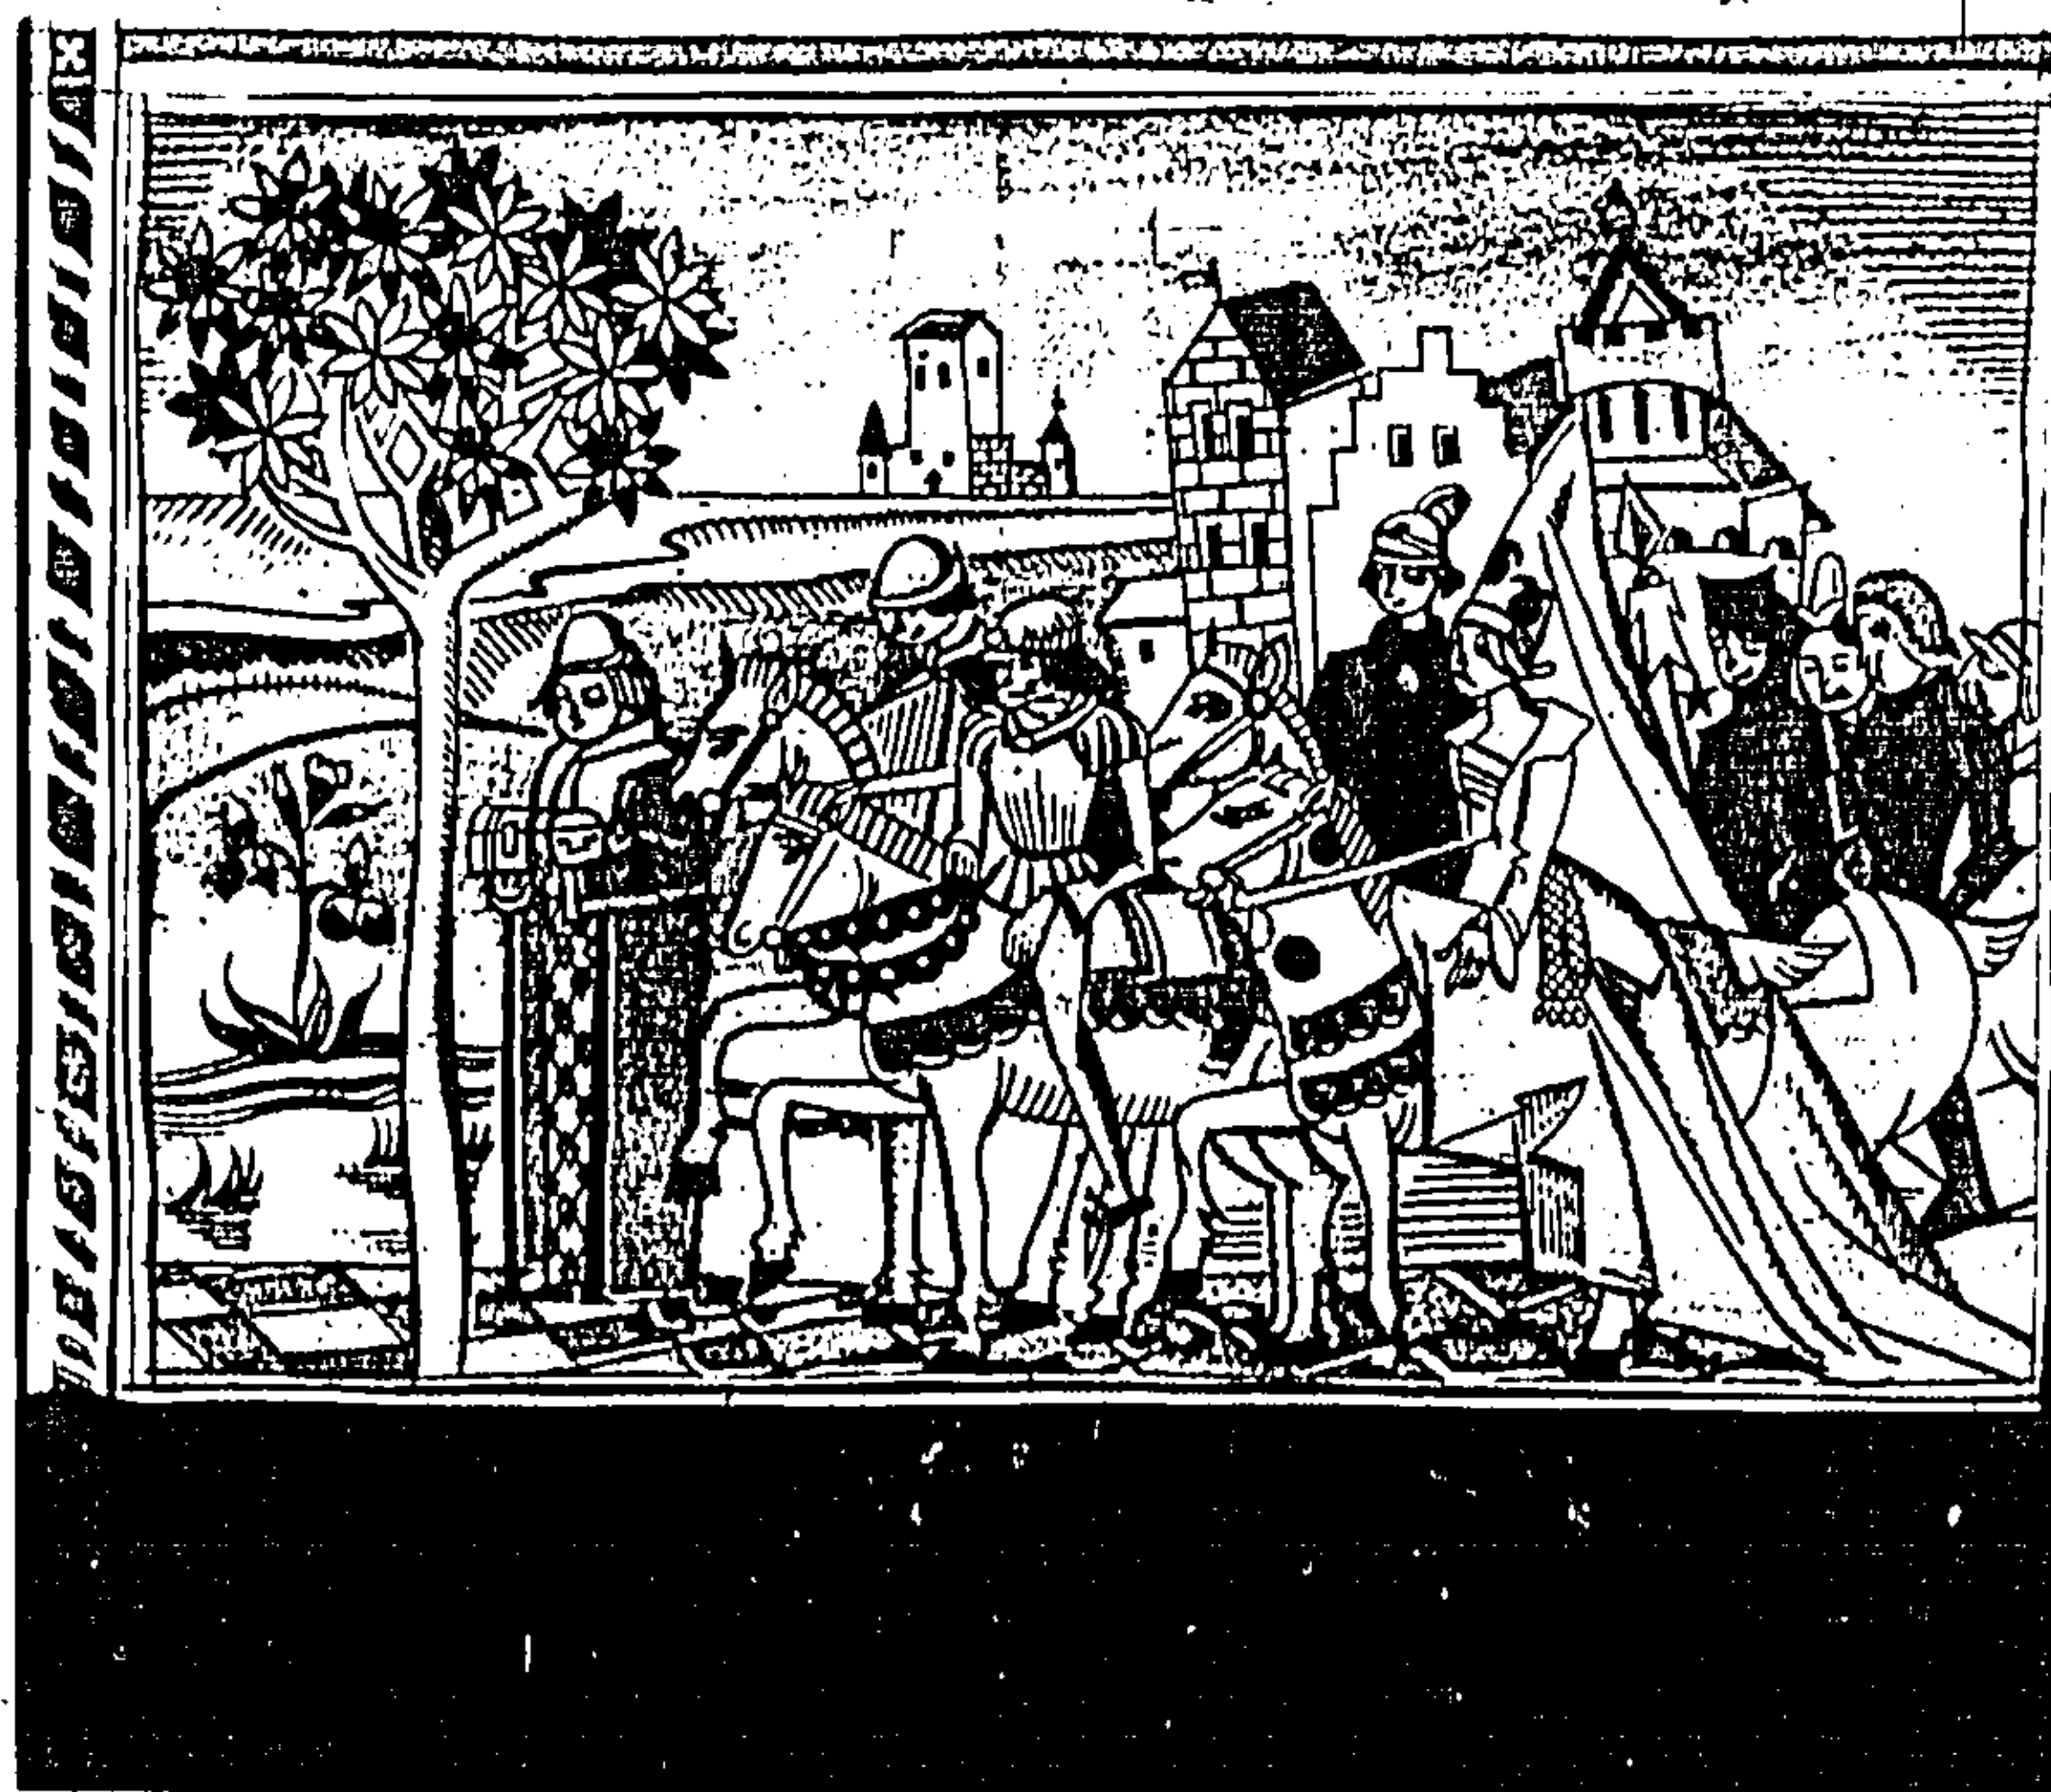

The Gare St. Lazare was chosen for the experiment, and Victoria Station is to test the idea here. Mr. Alastair MacDonald, the Prime Minister's son, is the architect of the theatre now being erected by the station.

It will be open in about six weeks' time, and arrangements for similar diversions for the waiting hour have been made with and drove off later in an open car other railway companies.

Why KLIM Interests You

KLIM is as good, as pure, and as wholesome as the best grades of certified milk sold. Its bacteria count is well within the certified milk limit.

The best is cheapest, usually. With KLIM there is no doubt of this. There is no waste with KLIM. You mix only what you really need.

Unexpected guests, storms, milk accidentally spilled or prematurely soured have no terrors for the housewife who gets her milk from the KLIM dairy.

KLIM POWDERED WHOLE MILK is full cream milk and is used as such for all purposes. You can mix it DOUBLE STRENGTH and enjoy the richness of CREAM for coffee and cereals.

Packed in three sizes, 1 lb., 2 1/2 lb. and 5 lb. tins. Obtainable at all stores.

You know those "occasions" when your man brings an important business friend home to dinner? The meal must be perfect, but you don't want to sit down all "hot and bothered" with the cooking!

This is where the "New World" "Regulo"-controlled Gas Cooker proves its worth, for you need only set the "Regulo" oven-heat controller, place the dinner, all together, in the oven, and then leave it to cook itself, unattended, until you are ready to serve it.

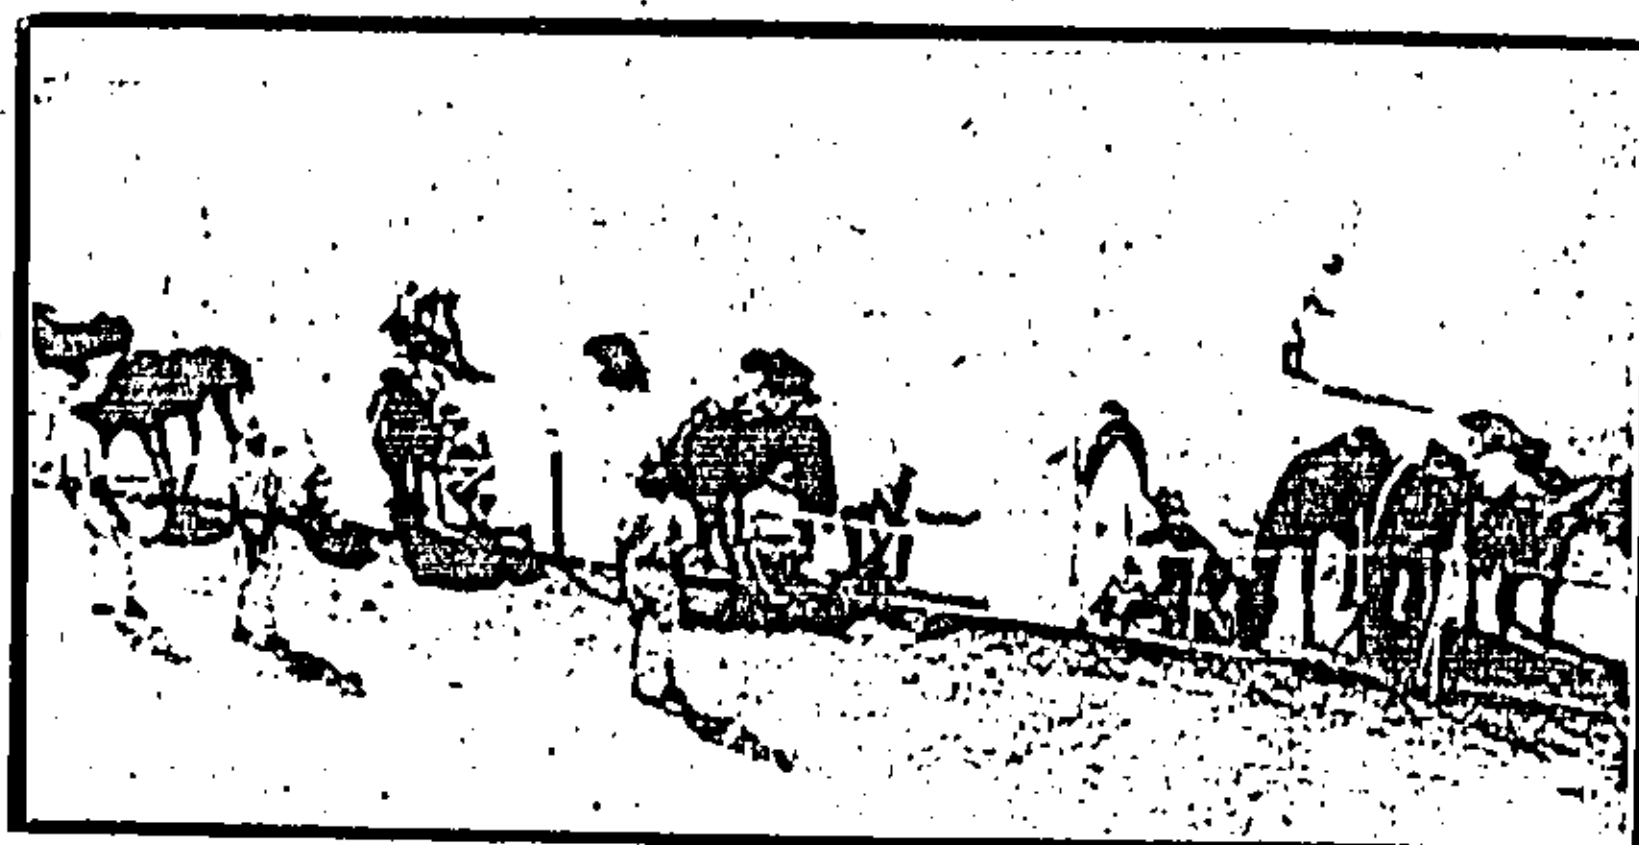

Doesn't this sound marvellous? ... But thousands of women enjoy a new leisure by using this wonderful Cooker.

FORGERS FOILED BY "BIG FIVE"

International Flying
Squad's Work.

BLOW AT CONTINENTAL
LAW-BREAKERS

London.
An "International Flying Squad" is now at work in Europe.
It is a small group of international police. Drawn from five countries, they are a quintet of highly specialised detectives who know no frontiers or customs formalities.

They have the support and aid of the most powerful police organisations in Europe.

The squad came into existence following a combined drive by Scotland Yard and the Continental police against a gang of forgers. A Scotland Yard chief flew to Amsterdam and there he was met by selected officers from the Belgian, Dutch, French and German police. Success so quickly came to them—the gang of forgers has been broken up and three arrests already made—that there is a strong move in influential quarters to establish permanently an International Flying Squad.

Permanent Squad Likely.
For years, international crooks have been able to dodge through the frontiers with forged passports, and the absence of co-operation between police headquarters of different countries has made it almost an impossibility to catch them.

"There is every likelihood," Reuter's Correspondent was told, "that a permanent squad will be set up to operate in big cases of international gangs."

A distinguished detective who retired recently said: "In order to defeat the activities of these gangs it would be necessary frequently to change the personnel of the squad, not only to prevent recognition by the gangs, but because these international crooks work on very skilled and highly organised lines and to defeat them you must have skilled officers in their particular line of crime."

"International jewel thieves, confidence tricksters, as well as forgers, need officers with a thorough knowledge of the inside methods of the specialised crook. Upon these lines with police officers able to cross frontiers without formalities, and as speedily and as easily as the crooks, I do not think the international crook would find life quite as easy as hitherto."—Reuter.

ASTONISHING FREAK AT OXFORD

Stray Cat With Two Wings.

FELINE EXPERTS BAFFLED

London.
Cats with nine lives and cats-o-nine-tails are fairly common but Oxford has just produced a cat with two wings.

This fully grown black-and-white cat is in the Oxford Zoo and feline experts are astonished but baffled by the phenomenon.

Unless its owner can be found, the cat will be destroyed as the authorities believe the public do not like looking at pathetic freaks of this kind.

The "flying cat" was found in a left near some stables at Summer House, Oxford. It is perfectly normal in other respects—purrs, drinks milk and likes mice and fish.

But it has two wings, each four inches long, which are covered with black and white fur. It cannot actually fly but according to some reports it makes vague attempts to do so.—Reuter.

TRIO OF HUMAN DRAMAS.

Strange Murder Baffles
French Police.

WINDFALL FOR TRAMP.

London.
Three inexplicable human dramas are reported by Reuter's Correspondent:—

Torn scraps of £1 and £5 notes were found littering the floor of a Capetown hotel bedroom beneath the swinging feet of a man found hanging by a window-cord from the fan-light.

He has been identified as a wealthy man from Rhodesia who had recently retired.

The mystery of a body trussed with barbed wire, weighted with heavy stones and stabbed three times with a stiletto through the heart, which has been found in the river Oise, is baffling the French police. The victim was well-known locally as a Don Juan.

He always carried a tiny metal motor mascot in his waistpocket. The mascot cannot be found.

A man of about 40, in a state of terrific agitation, rushed up to a tramp standing near the docks at Bordeaux and thrust a package of 100 franc notes into his hand. He then swallowed two silver coins about the size of a 2-pence, bound his own hands and threw himself into the water.

All that can be discovered about him is that he was a fugitive from Russia who had once been on the stage.—Reuter.

Below the bier rested the remains of his dog and of sacrificed slaves. Who was he?—The latest "find" made at Bellana by the Archaeological Survey of Nubia in the Byzantine-Nubian tumuli tombs.

His resting place is known to the excavators as "Tomb 80."

At the foot of the bier were found a number of chased iron spears, swords, an iron chair and many bronze vessels.

A second chamber in "Tomb 80" contained the body of his queen, who wore a silver crown decorated with the figures of Egyptian kings.

A third room was found to hold a great number of silver and bronze vessels, pottery and glassware.

This tomb is in a much better state of preservation than those previously excavated at Bellana. The contents are of much greater value, and will make a rich addition to the collection of the Cairo Museum.—Reuter.

TOO MUCH SPORT IN S. AFRICA

War Veteran's Warning
To Empire Group.

"PAY MORE ATTENTION TO RUMBLING WAR DRUMS"

Cape Town.
A warning to South Africans to pay less attention to sport and more attention to the war drums that were rumbling again was sounded by Brigadier-General John Joseph Byron, C. M. G., D. S. O., in an address on "Peace in Our Time" to the Empire Group.

Brigadier-General Byron, who is now a Union legislator, has had a remarkable war career. He held various staff appointments in the Australian military forces, was attached with the United States army in the Philippines War of 1899, served in the South African War when he was A.D.C. to Lord Roberts, commanded a mixed brigade in the German South West Africa campaign from 1914 to 1915 and served in Flanders.

"We are paying too much attention to pleasure and sport. We are carrying it too far. The newspapers and the public set too much store by sport and sportsman. If we were to take a plebiscite to-day of the people we should send to a world conference I have no doubt that Benito Mussolini and Donald McKinnon would represent South Africa and would sit in conference with Hobbes and Larwood (England) and Bobby Jones (U.S.A.)."

General Byron urged the public to focus a little attention on the Disarmament and Economic Conferences. While conferences were meeting and treaties, which after all were only scraps of paper, were being drawn up there was a lot of high explosive lying loose in Europe liable to be detonated at any moment. There was, for example, the friction between Germany and Poland over the Polish Corridor.—Reuter.

MEN MANNEQUINS IN MILAN.

Advertising Novelty
Causes Sensation.

Milan.
Twelve handsome young men, all dressed in the height of fashion, all wearing dark horn-rimmed glasses, walking in single file along Milan's main streets.

"What on earth is this?" said all the passers-by.

It was only an advertising "stunt" by a ready-made tailors—but it has caused a tremendous sensation in the city.

Hundreds of unemployed young men flock to the shop daily to ask for jobs as "men mannequins."—Reuter.

FRENCH SCIENTIST HONOURED.

Inventor Of Thermos
Flask.

Paris.
The "scientific diamond jubilee" has been celebrated at the Sorbonne, of Professor Arsene D'Arsonval, inventor of the thermos flask.

He is 82 and is considered the "Grand old man" of French Science.

The ceremony took place in the great amphitheatre of the Sorbonne. A galaxy of famous scientists attended.—Reuter.

AMERICANS ENGAGED BY TURKEY.

Investigation Of Mineral Wealth.

Istanbul.
The undeveloped mineral wealth of Turkey is to be investigated, and four American mining engineers have been engaged for the work by the Turkish Government.

They have gone to Kagitlar to look at gold mines, and to Maridino to examine country where oil is thought to exist.

Turkish engineers are accompanying the investigators.

The Turkish Government is placing increased reliance on the reports of foreign specialists, and there are now a great number of engineers and professors, both Europeans and Americans, working in Turkey.—Reuter.

MAKING CITIZENS WAR-MINDED

Military Commandments
Drafted In Germany.

PROFICIENT IN RUNNING

Berlin.

Ten commandments designed to turn the average able-bodied German civilian into a soldier have been worked out by Lieutenant-Colonel von Coothenhausen, of the Hirschberg Jäger Battalion.

The decalogue is introduced with remarks to the effect that every citizen may be called to arms one day, but that strictly military training is the business of the army authorities. The Colonel then explains how the citizen may prepare himself for the call:

- 1.—Be able to march 20 miles carrying a heavy knapsack.
- 2.—Buy some kind of uniform, or at least a waterproof suit and serviceable boots, before investing in a dinner jacket.
- 3.—Make yourself proficient in running, throwing, and shooting.
- 4.—Be able to drive a car, and handle horses.
- 5.—Know how to set up a wireless and handle transmission apparatus.
- 6.—Once a year, read a book on war history and regularly read one periodical dealing with matters of national defence.
- 7.—Acquaint yourself with the most important military developments in neighbouring countries.
- 8.—Familiarise yourself with the lay of the land in German frontier regions, before making trips abroad.
- 9.—Be able to read charts, and find your way about by night with the aid of maps and compass.
- 10.—Attend army manoeuvres at home and abroad, whenever possible.—Reuter.

THE POPULAR TAX COLLECTORS.

Exemption Form Given
For Goods.

THREE ARRESTED AT NOVI SAD.

Belgrade.
A tax-collector named Ajmashi has been arrested at Novi Sad. In his house an extraordinary collection of goods was found. These goods, which he is said to have exchanged for tax exemption forms, include:—

50 bottles of cognac, 60 lbs. of coffee, 26 lbs. of tea, 30 bottles of different liqueurs, 50 bottles of various scents, 40 bottles of eau de cologne, leather for 10 pairs of shoes, 10 pairs of new shoes, 50 rulers, 100 note books, 45 boxes of pencils, 17 boxes of pens and a vast assortment of clothing and ornaments.

In addition were found 200 tax exemption forms ready filled in, signed and stamped.

Two other collectors in Novi Sad have also been arrested. They admit to having cheated the Department of Taxes to the extent of £200 each, but it is believed that the actual sums misappropriated are much greater.—Reuter.

News In Brief.

A Public Auction for the Letting of Crown Land will be held at the District Office, Taipei, at 11.30 a.m. on Wednesday, September 13, when two small pieces, measuring .35 and .34 of an acre respectively, will be offered.

Ho Shi-hung, aged 27, shop fohi, was yesterday fined $5 by Mr. Wynne-Jones for cruelty to four pigeons by tying all their wings together with one piece of string.

Leung Heung, a Chinese woman, was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital on Friday evening, suffering from cuts to the head and shock, after being knocked down by a pedal bicycle in Nathan Road.

Tenders are called for the erection of a two-story Dormitory for Prisoners at Lai Chi Kok Prison.

Tenders for the supply of Locomotive Coal to the Kowloon-Canton Railway for one year from January 1, 1934, will be received up to noon on Saturday, September 30, at the Colonial Treasurer's Office.

CAPT. COOK'S COTTAGE FOR AUSTRALIA

Bought By Victoria
For £800.

SOLD BY AUCTION.

London.
Stone by stone, brick by brick, an ancient cottage now standing at Great Ayton, Yorkshire, once the family home of Captain Cook, will shortly be taken to Australia to take pride of place at the Victoria Centenary Celebrations in October, 1934.

Captain Cook, of course, discovered Australia and the cottage will be taken 11,000 miles and re-erected at Melbourne.

When the cottage was put up for auction sale there was a condition that the property must not be removed from the district. But when the only bid was £300 the auctioneer announced that the restriction would be waived provided the cottage remained in the British Empire.

So a representative of the Government of Victoria was able to buy it for £800.

Captain Cook spent his boyhood in a farmhouse at Great Ayton. The farmhouse has long ago disappeared but the cottage that Captain Cook's father afterwards built is still standing. It has "J. C. 1755" inscribed over the door.

Quite a local controversy broke out recently when the Vicar of Great Ayton declared there was no evidence to prove that Captain Cook ever saw the cottage. But local tradition unwaveringly maintains that the famous navigator often visited it while on shore, particularly in 1772 before he sailed for the South Seas with the ships Resolution and Endeavour.—Reuter.

"DEVIL AND WIFE" ARRESTED.

Credulous Peasant
Blackmailed.

Prague.
A Slovak gipsy woman and her brother have been arrested for obtaining money by threat. It was by false pretences, for they masqueraded as the devil and his wife.

The woman accosted a peasant couple named Beko one dark night and declared to them that her husband, the devil, would be calling for their souls in a short time.

The two were terrified and begged her to dissuade the devil from his intention. She agreed to do this for a sum of money, which was promptly paid. The incident was repeated from time to time until the Bekos had not more money.

In desperation they consulted the police, who have now arrested "the devil and his wife."—Reuter.

POSSESSION OF HEROIN PILLS.

Four Chinese Remanded.

Four Chinese males, Tak Lam, Chan Kung, Chan Lam and Leung Lam, appeared yesterday morning before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy, charged with being in possession of 400 heroin pills between them without a permit from the Superintendent of Imports and Exports.

Revenue Officer A. W. Grimmett asked for 48 hours' remand, which was granted.

Personal Pars.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mahoney were passengers for Manila by the Empress of Canada.

Mr. C. Jeung was a new arrival in the Colony on Friday by the s.s. President Jefferson.

Mr. W. L. McKee, of the National City Bank of New York, arrived yesterday by the Kashima Maru.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Garrod and daughter were passengers by the Empress of Canada, which left for Manila at midnight on Friday.

Mrs. V. S. Goldman and Miss M. Goldman were new arrivals in the Colony by the s.s. Kashima Maru which reached Hong Kong yesterday.

The Company We Seek Through Life

Work Saves Many Moods
And Fancies

LIFE ITSELF IS BONDAGE

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

A FEW weeks ago, the article in this column dealt with the case of the man whom nobody wants. It was based on the story of the man who was healed by St. Peter outside the gate Beautiful of the Temple in Jerusalem.

Quite naturally this miracle excited tremendous interest, and incidentally so enraged the rulers, that they committed Peter and John to prison. However, they were compelled to release them, and then we come to these very significant words in the story, "And being let go, they went to their own company."

It is a sentence of such rich suggestion that I want to pass it on to you. None of us are prisoners in a literal sense. We are not immured in dark dungeons, but all the same there are shackles that bind us, we are under many kinds of constraints, but when we are released, we go to our own company. Think of the constraint of home. It is the earliest one we know. We have to yield our wills to the ordering of others, even though it is a constraint of love. But the day comes when the young man leaves that home. He has to face the world on his own resources, the day of authority is over. He leaves the strength of home and steadily goes to his own company. What kind of life was he living during those years? What ideal was glimmering and forming under the quiet routine of home, and the harder system of his school days?

It is not liberty that wrecks men, it is the kind of life they have led in secret before the hour of liberty arrives, and the bonds of authority are broken. No man becomes a prodigal in an hour. He merely went to the company for which he had been preparing himself. The only incident in our Lord's boyhood recorded for us, was His visit to the Temple, afterwards He was missing. Possibly He was not the only one. One son was probably found among the soldiers, another in the bazaars. Mary alone found her Son in the Temple, simply because He had gone to His own company.

Work is Wise Constraint. Think, too, of the constraint of work. What a tremendous amount of moods and fancies we are saved from by our work. Of course there are times when its constraints are irritable. When the heat is oppressive, and we long for the open air, or the bathing place, it is not easy with a quiet heart to get down to the job of work. Nevertheless work is a wise constraint. Then being let go, we go—where? That is the point. What is our company where do we gravitate? Well, we can either thank God for it, or else be a little ashamed.

Then what of the constraint of our self-interest? There is the bondage that everyone knows, and which arises from our social system. No man is free, in an intricate society, to say and do exactly as he pleases. The most uncharitable people in the world are those who take a pride in being candid. In the heroic nature the thought of self-interest has hardly any place, but I am not talking of heroes now, but just the average man in the average city. He is so interlocked in this great mechanism which we call society that something of the rough and vigorous and outspoken liberty which characterised our forefathers is gone. It can be far more expensive for the average citizen to speak his whole mind, than to keep a motor-car. There are accommodations and compliances and silences that are well understood on every exchange and market.

One of the hardest tasks is to keep a clean conscience and an un-bulldozed heart while bowing to those restraints of self which society domands, or wise self-interest has imposed.

No Bondage is Perpetual. But that bondage is not a perpetual one. All are released from it in various ways. If action be fettered, thought at least is free, nor is there any veil by the fireside at home. Or it may be that when a man has made what is called his fortune, he feels at last that he can dare to be himself, for he no longer depends for his advancement on the kindly offices of others. The question is what are we then? What judgments do we pass? Are we less courteous and kind now that we are made, than in the years when the career was in the making? Being let go from social entanglement and from the grim and ceaseless pressure of self-interest we surely and steadily go to our own.

Think of the constraint of evil habit. One of the most arresting of Christ's miracles was the curing of the Gaderene demoniac. In that great moment when he was faced by Christ it was farewell to his bondage. He was a free man again, and being let go he went back to those who loved him. One of the plagues of sin is that it separates a man from his own company.

Seek the Best Company. There is a burst of temper, and then misunderstanding, and then the pride that will never ask forgiveness, and hearts that were made for one another, go drifting apart. Father and son are separated, and the mother from her child. Then comes Christ and gives us spiritual freedom, and being let go, we go to our own company. For the best is our true company, not the worst. We were made for goodness not for evil. Love and tenderness and purity and light are our true society. Last of all there is a deep sense in which life itself is a bondage. We are children of immortality and not of time. Nothing is perfect here, and nothing rounded. We are not built to the scale of three score years and ten. There is no such thing as ultimate success here, the only success is not to cease our striving. When there comes the dark experience that men call death, the spirit is set free, and being set free travels to its own.

It is far wiser to think of eternity like that even Judas went there. We are told that he went to his own place,—the rest is silence. Whatever the future life may be, you can be quite certain of this, that you are fitting yourself for it now, we are determining now, what our company will be then.

Blood Poisoning Caused
By Hammer-Blow.

BLACKSMITH'S DEATH
IN HOSPITAL

Chen Sing, 25, assistant blacksmith, of the Chau Yee Building Contractors, Wanchai, died at the Government Civil Hospital on Friday from blood poisoning, resulting from an injury received earlier in the day.

During the course of his work at the Naval Dockyard, a sledge-hammer which he was wielding missed its object, a chisel, and struck his right foot, inflicting a severe wound.

He was taken to his home first, where he was treated, but blood poisoning set in and he was then conveyed to the Government Civil Hospital, where he died shortly after admission.

HOW PEOPLE LIVE IN FINLAND

NATIONALIST SPIRIT DOMINANT

PASSION FOR FITNESS AND LEARNING

(By George Goodwin.)

Our American-built car, speeding along the boulevard of Helsinki, mostly in country places, we have to act as both physician and surgeon. We cannot send for the specialist, so we have to handle all cases single-handed.

"You ought to have sounded your horn," I protested to my Finnish companion.

"We don't permit horns," he explained, accelerating blithely. "People are supposed to keep their eyes open."

That was my first impression of the granite city of the north and of the ways of its people.

Helsinki, I discovered, and with it all Finnish towns, has vanquished the noise nuisance completely: no horns, bells, street organs or street cries are allowed.

Finland goes about its daily business in Sabbatharian calm.

Land Of Surprises

Finland is, first and last, a land of surprises. Take, for example, the position of women in the baby Republic of the Baltic. Women perform every kind of work, enter freely all professions. The first country to give women the franchise, Finland has applied a hard logic to the doctrine of sex equality.

If women can vote, it is tacitly argued, they can likewise toll. In any town in Finland you will find the women have secured a virtual monopoly of dentistry. Male dentists are practically non-existent.

In the two universities of Helsinki and Abo women students equal in number the men. A large proportion of them are students in the Medical Faculty; many more are studying law.

On the awning-shaded deck of a lake steamer I talked with a baby-faced blonde wearing the white yachtman's peaked cap which is the orthodox student's headgear.

She was, she told me, a third year student. "Our medical course," she said, "takes ten years and many students take longer. As we have to go into practice mostly in country places, we have to act as both physician and surgeon. We cannot send for the specialist, so we have to handle all cases single-handed.

From that same deck I watched wayside lake jetties where barefooted women handled heavy farm produce. And from the window of my train I saw a woman stationmaster directing her male subordinates in a smart semi-military uniform. I watched women punching tramway tickets, cleaning railway stations, selling newspapers, handling currency in the big banks, and fish in the great harbours, running big hotels.

In a tour that covered 1,500 miles I stayed at many hotels. In country places the staffs were all women, girls wearing the charming national costume. Once I offered a tip. It was declined. "All our maids and waitresses," the manageress explained, "are students."

In the towns the people live in flats. They are not rented but held freehold. Every apartment building represents the property of a private company whose shareholders are the tenants. When a tenant wishes to leave he sells his shares and the buyer of those shares becomes the freeholder of the vacated apartment.

Every family has a summer cottage, and since about half the country is lake or island most of these retreats are beautifully situated.

Passion For Fitness

The Finn has two dominating passions. The first is for physical fitness, the second for education. I saw more new schools in Finland than I have seen in any other country in Europe.

The summer is short; the winter long. And this fact may account for the national habit of book-buying. In Helsinki I visited the biggest bookshop in Europe. What the films are to us books are to the Finns.

Finland has no coal; its vast, lake-linked forests struggle for existence upon a solid shield of granite. But Finland has water. At Imatra I saw a power-house as large as the new Battersea station. It cost £3,000,000 and it supplies every big town in southern and central Finland with power. Five men handle that vast storehouse of energy. Five men to handle the power supply for over two millions of consumers.

There is a Finnish adage that God made time but not haste. They rise late—nine o'clock is quite usual. They never appear to hurry except when behind the wheel of a car. The tempo of life is easy. But food is a very serious business.

I recall sitting down to dinner on one occasion at half-past eight; the food arrived at a quarter to one. At two o'clock, when the sky was flushing towards dawn, came the coffee and liqueurs.

Between gargantuan meals the Finn consumes vast quantities of milk. Milk, rather than beer or schnapps, is the national beverage.

Off Prohibition, drunkenness has decreased and with it crimes of violence. If you want a glass of beer you must buy with it a small pastry or sandwich. Drink is not served without food.

If you require a newspaper, you can buy one from a kiosk or newsstand—kept by a woman. But the Finn subscribes to his paper by entering the nearest post office and paying a year's subscription. Thereafter it is posted to him, and it costs him nothing for postage.

Helsinki, with a population of 200,000, has five morning and four evening papers.

Of crimes against property there is an astonishing absence. In the prison I visited the governor told me that most of the inmates were there for crimes against the person.

Keen Nationalists

Like all young countries that came into being as the result of the World War, Finland is intensely nationalistic. Under the Tsars, the Swedish element was dominant; now the Swedes are in much the same position as the English in Free State Ireland.

There is in many ways a parallel between this northern Republic and

"Did she send you something very ugly, then?"

"No, ma'am. Hers was a beautiful present. But you see, ma'am, a little bird whispered to me that her future husband's a man of violent temper, and I thought I'd send her something that would be useful in case of family disputes. She has the straightest aim with a flat iron I've ever seen!"

NON-PRODUCTION OF LICENSE.

Hawker Fined $1.

"THOUGHT POLICE WERE GOING TO SUMMON HIM."

"I will fine you $1, the ordinary fine for not producing your license, and I advise you to show it to the police the next time they ask for it," said Mr. Wynne-Jones yesterday morning to a Chinese hawker, charged with failing to produce his license when called upon to do so. The accused caused some laughter in Court when he said he refused to show his license to the Police because he thought they were going to summon him.

The Court Inspector who was on duty last night when the accused was brought in, said that he and two Chinese constables had a very rough time of it while trying to obtain the accused's license, which he was carrying hidden in his clothes.

HOW PEOPLE LIVE IN FINLAND.

the Irish Free State. There is, for example, the language question. The Finns demand their own peculiar and unlearnable language. Thus they insist on Helsinki for Helsinki, on Turku for Abo, the old capital.

When Finland was under the Tears the Swedish Finns dominated the social and business life of the country. Now that domination is being challenged at every turn.

This drive towards a hundred-per-cent nationalism is nowhere more apparent than among the students. I was told that there is an invisible army 200,000 strong, composed of students, each with his kit, rifle and ammunition. One sees Black Shirts and Brown Shirts and the swastika everywhere.

What does this spirit of aggressive nationalism signify? I asked that question of many prominent Finns; and from their replies was forced to one conclusion: Finland aspires to extend her domain to the Urals.

Standing upon the highest point in Finland, with a vast vista of pellucid lakes and sombre green forests below, I could see a dim horizon that was twenty miles beyond the Finnish-Soviet boundary. "Along that stretch," said my Finnish friend, "there are some kind of defences; but they are not on our side."

And from that same vantage point I saw the sun sink down un-followed by darkness, so that the cuckoos continued to call and nature continued upon her way. And three hours later, precisely at two o'clock, I saw him rise again, blood-red and majestic.

At that moment a bee appeared from nowhere and buzzed consequently about a starveling shrub. And I remembered that this place where I stood was the highest point in Finland, remembered, too, how Virgil, in the Bucolics, tells how the bee flies upwards to meet the rising sun.

And between that bee and this new and virile nation there seemed some parallel. For Finland, young, virile and dynamic, moves upwards, full of confidence, towards the sunrise of her To-morrow.

PUBLIC AUCTION OF CROWN LANDS.

Three Castle Peak Lots
For Sale.

BUNGALOW SITES WITH SEA FRONTAGE.

Three small pieces of Crown land situated at Castle Peak, measuring respectively 2,250 square feet, 2,250 square feet and 6,400 square feet, will be offered for sale by public auction at the Land Office, Ping Shan at 11 a.m. on Thursday September 14.

The lots will be sold for a term of 75 years from July 1, 1898, with the right of renewal for a further term of 24 years, less 3 days, at a re-assessed Crown Rent, lots 1 and 2 as building lots and lot 3 as a building and garden lot.

The amount to be spent on each lot in rateable improvements is fixed at $1,500.

A further special condition attaching to lots 1 and 2 is that the purchaser shall, within 12 months from the date of purchase, fill in the lot and an area shown on the sale plan to levels approved by the Director of Public Works and shall protect the whole with a sea-wall of such design and materials as shall be approved by that Officer.

ISLAND ROAD FATALITY.

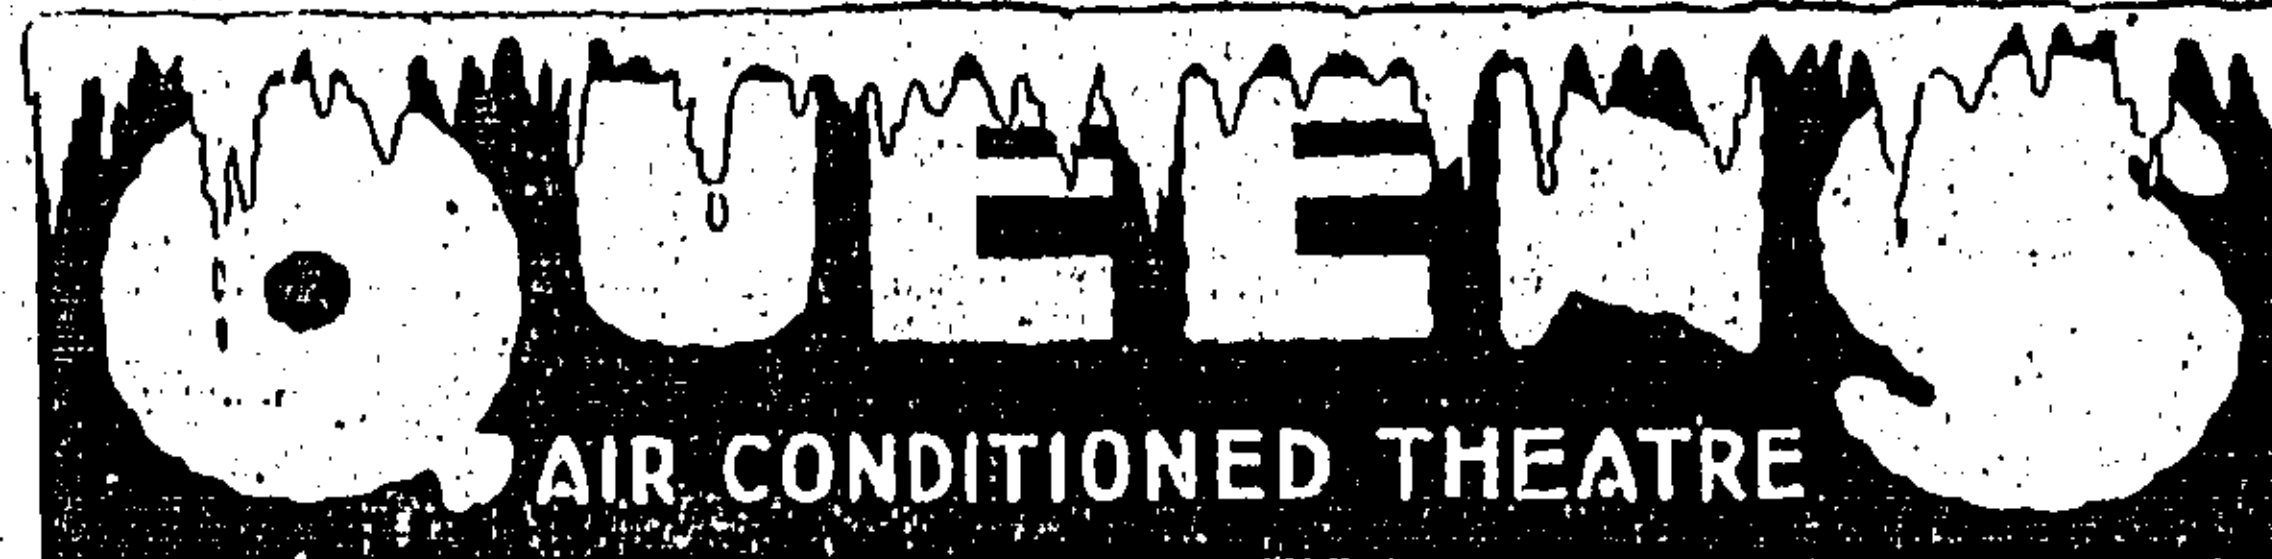

Lorry Driver Charged
With Manslaughter.

DATE OF HEARING FIXED.

Loo Leung, lorry driver, charged with the manslaughter of Li Hing, a coolie, on August 24, and alternatively with dangerous driving and carrying excessive persons on his lorry, again appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning, when the dates for the preliminary hearing were fixed for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday next.

Sub-Inspector S. Saunders of the Traffic Department appeared for the prosecution. The accused is represented by Mr. Hing-Shing Lo.

Miss Wilson was good in her plain dives, but failed badly when called upon to give a fancy dive, and it was at this stage of the diving that the Chinese girl took the lead and won. The Chinese girl beat Miss Wilson by 91 points to 86. The Men's 100 Yards Back Stroke championship provided the first big surprise of the evening. Kwok Chun-hang the Colony Breast Stroke champion bettered Leung Shui-man's heat time of 75 secs. by one second to win from the C.B.C. star by three yards.

Lai Im-cheuk (C.S.S.C.) took a surprising lead in the first two lengths, keeping well over two yards ahead of Kwok, Leung and Kan Yee-ming.

Kwok's Good Time.

In the third length Kwok made a brilliant recovery to overhaul Lai Im-cheuk and gradually draw away from Leung Shui-man.

The last length saw Kwok make a complete break away to win with a several yards to spare. His time of 74 seconds in three seconds above the present Colony record, which is held by Wong Slong-hing, the Singapore Chinese swimmer of the Hong Kong University Swimming Club.

The Ladies team race was at first expected to provide South China with an easy win in view of the absence of Miss Eua Allen.

The crowded gallery, however, received a shock when Miss Sybil Daziel gave the Y.M.C.A. Ladies a two yard lead at the end of the first 50 yards. Mrs. Divett, who substituted Miss Allen, swam brilliantly to increase this lead, and Mrs. Rend maintained the lead against Miss Leung Wing-han (S.C.A.A.) to give Mrs. Schreuder an easy task over the last 50.

Another Chinese Win.

The Men's Diving championship, which followed after an interval of ten minutes, provided the third sensation of the night. L. A. Morrison and L. E. Morgan of the Y.M.C.A. being beaten for first place by Cheung Ping-yan (C.S.S.C.) who gave a very polished display.

Cheung Ping-yan secured 150½ points against Morrison's 158½. So Tin-mo scored 156½ points. Morgan, who was expected to carry off the title in the absence of E. F. Selk, who amused the spectators with very entertaining feats off the boards, failed disappointingly. He lost numerous points on his approach.

Morrison, who performed well in flight and entry, was also at fault in this respect.

Cheung Ping-yan was faultless in his approach, take-off, flight and entry and evoked applause from all quarters of the bath.

Mak Wai-ming (C.S.S.C.) who won the title at the Association gala of June 24, was placed fourth.

Although he pleased most of the spectators in his flight and entry, he was not at ease and displayed too much stiffness in his take-off.

So Tin-mo (Chung Sing) was the most graceful diver in flight but finished up badly. His Back dive off the high board was a very worthy effort and was the most perfect of all optional dives performed last night.

The Y.M.C.A. scored a very notable triumph last night when their "double" by a brilliant victory in the 200 Yards Open relay. They averaged 27.4/5 seconds per man—in fresh water!

Wood Secures Early Lead.

Wood (Y.M.C.A.) secured a slight lead over Cheong Wing-kwong (S.C.A.A.) and Wong Yat-hung (C.B.C.), which Lange increased on the turn for Ralton to race away. Donn, held the substantial lead to cover the distance in 27 seconds.

ASPRO

Prominent Physician
Praises 'ASPRO'

States That People Who Cannot Take Ordinary Aspirin Can Take
'ASPRO.' 'ASPRO' Effective
Where Others Fail.
Non-Toxic Value Appreciated.

Scotland, 29th August, 1928.

I am writing to let you know of my experience with 'ASPRO' while I have made no chemical tests the CLINICAL RESULTS FULLY SUBSTANTIATE YOUR CLAIMS OF EXTREME PURITY. I have found that people who could not take ordinary ASPIRIN Owing to the GASTRIC UPSET IT CAUSED READILY TOLERATED 'ASPRO.' Also doses of 'ASPRO' are effective where similar doses of Aspirin are not. It has, also, taken at night, a mild hypnotic effect which is very valuable considering its non-toxic character.

If you will send me samples for general use I shall have pleasure in distributing them to certain of my patients.

Yours faithfully, F.S. (M.B., Ch. B.). (Name withheld for professional reasons).

Eminent Analyst's
Report.

56a, Great Dover St., London, S.E.1.
1st October, 1924.

I have, during the past few months, made an exhaustive examination of a number of the best-known brands of Aspirin Tablets, and have, at the request of Nicholas Pty. Ltd., made a careful examination of 'ASPRO.' As a result of these examinations, I have to report, after 10 individual tests, I find that no single Tablet of 'ASPRO' contains any trace of free Salicylic Acid.

I find the weight of the Tablets very uniform, and that they have been made by some process which, contrary to the general practice, does not cause decomposition and consequent liberation of free Salicylic Acid. All other processes of Aspirin Tablet manufacture with which I am acquainted turn out Tablets which are liable to contain, and do frequently contain free Salicylic Acid.

ANOTHER DOCTOR SAYS 'ASPRO' IS VASTLY SUPERIOR TO ORDINARY ASPIRIN

Chesham, England, 7/2/29.

Dear Sirs,
In most cases I have found 'ASPRO' VASTLY SUPERIOR TO ORDINARY ASPIRIN. ESPECIALLY in patients who, in addition to varying conditions for which 'ASPRO' was given, also suffer from some form of digestive disturbance.

One case in particular is worthy of mention—A NURSE (age 39) engaged in public health and infant welfare work, since coming to Manchester four years ago, has suffered from sub-acute attacks of Rheumatism. She COULD NEVER TOLERATE SALICYLATE IN THE FORM OF ASPIRIN OR IN MIXTURES. I gave her several sample boxes of 'ASPRO' and she is genuinely delighted with the results, viz.—

ALLEVIATION OF PAIN, UNDISTURBED SLEEP AND COMPLETE FREEDOM FROM ALL AFTER-EFFECTS IN THE SHAPE OF DEPRESSION AND INDIGESTION. If you care to let me have samples I shall be only too pleased to distribute them.

Yours faithfully,

THE TIGER OF TIBET

"Bismillah, but our fortune is good to-night. While I was carrying on the Tiger's orders across the border I learned that one of my own village was a spy in the pay of the Indian Government. I could have killed him, but I thought it better to let him send his news for a time. He had no real news to tell; if he had I would have killed him. He came here to Delhi before me. I know not what he learnt here, but he is now, carried in the passage. I struck before he had time to raise the alarm. A single call and the police would be here—I saw many outside when we came in. It is now finished. Let us hear what orders there may yet be to be told."

There was a murmur of approval. Bulbul recovered his equanimity. "Thou didst well. It shall be remembered, Kurram Ali." He then again assumed control of the meeting. "I have no further orders. It is waste of time to ask questions as to how this Barrako is to be killed. The Tiger has himself decreed that he is to die. That is enough. Let him die and that swiftly. Ye will depart by the back way, and as ye go I shall pay each one what is due."

He swept aside the pile of cushions on which he had been sitting, and Geoffrey saw a trap-door. This was immediately opened by a waiting Tibetan, and Bulbul vanished down some steps. The men in the room seemed to know their part and started to follow in single file. Geoffrey and Sher Khan brought up the rear. The procession moved ahead slowly in the dim light of the underground passage, and Geoffrey could hear the constant clink of money. At length he found himself in a small underground room. Bulbul and a couple of Tibetan assistants were seated at a table past which the mixed crowd passed like men entering the pit-door of a theatre. As each man passed he was given a bag of money. At last Geoffrey's turn came and he took his bag. It was heavy. Sher Khan was behind him, and Bulbul broke the silence: "Here is another—purse, Kurram Ali.—The usual reward for good work."

Geoffrey followed in the long queue and soon entered another passage. Then came some steps, and they passed into a large go-down or store-room. The ranks were no longer kept and the members of the gang gradually dispersed in twos and threes, for there were two doors to the go-down. Geoffrey and Sher Khan took the nearest and found themselves in a narrow street. A few score yards farther on and they were again in the Chandi Chowk. "Sh! Not a word. The night has ears everywhere." Sher Khan took Geoffrey's arm and led him swiftly towards the Kashmir Gate. (To be Continued.)

MOTERING NOTES.

Sperry Automatic Control

Wonders Of Super-Human Robot Pilot

AIDED POST'S RECORD FLIGHT

Super-human in its control of the ship is the automatic or robot pilot with which Wiley Post's round the world Lockheed-Vega monoplane "Winnie Mae" is equipped. Not only does it keep the plane on its course and maintain its altitude and lateral stability, but it corrects with an almost anticipative celerity and deviations caused by wind or weather.

"It takes a dipping wing or dropping nose to bring the human pilot into action to straighten out," says Post, "but the automatic pilot's counteractive moves are themselves set in motion by the very deviations for which they compensate. While flying with the automatic pilot, therefore, one feels it has an uncanny faculty for sensing and correcting before they become pronounced the deviations in the plane's attitude which the human pilot must first actually feel or see."

As soon as the airplane has gained sufficient altitude upon taking off, the automatic pilot is connected and immediately takes over the three controls. Lateral and longitudinal stability is maintained by automatic control of the ailerons and elevator, an adjustment being provided for trimming the ship to meet any condition of load. Changes of course may be made as desired by turning a course-adjusting dial.

Maneuvers such as a flat or banked turns, climbs, glides, etc., may also be made with precision through the automatic pilot. Whenever it is desirable for the flyer to assume manual control, as in making landings, the simple movement of a single lever instantly disengages the robot. Through darkness, fog or any kind of weather the automatic pilot guides the plane with an accuracy superior to the human pilot's because it has no senses to react deceptively to the unnatural influences of blind flying.

Evolved in 1914.

Evolution of the Sperry Automatic Pilot began with the gyro-stabilizer for airplanes which won the Sperry Gyroscope Company the grand prize of the Union pour la Securite en Aeroplane in 1914. War retarded perfection of the gyro-stabilizer but, after development of the turn-and-bank indicator, in searching for a blind-flying instrument which would actually show a plane's flight, attitude, the Sperry engineers later turned back to the gyro-stabilizer. Its gyros were removed and separately improved into what are now known as the Sperry Artificial Horizon and the Sperry Directional Gyro.

Success of these two instruments when used together quite logically suggested the long-sought solution of the problem of automatic control any they were again combined into the perfected Sperry Automatic Pilot. It has two principal parts; the gyro control and the servo unit. The gyro unit is mounted in the instrument panel and provides not only visual indications of bank, pitch and direction similar to those of the Artificial Horizon and Directional Gyro but also the horizontal, vertical and directional data from which the airplane is automatically controlled by the servo unit.

Air-Driven Component.
The gyros are air-driven. Together with air relays which connect them to the servo unit, they require six cubic feet of air per minute at four inches of vacuum. This is provided by an engine-driven vacuum pump. Hydraulic valves, operated directly by the air relays, are also part of the control unit and in turn actuate pistons which are hooked up to the three controls. 360 degree turns, 45 degree banks and 45 degree climbs or dives can be made through remote control knobs on the face of the unit. Caging devices are fitted to both gyroscopes.

The hydraulic-cylinder servo unit is connected to the control unit by six oil lines and three follow-up cables. A bypass valve, operated by a lever convenient to the pilot, engages or disengages the automatic control. An engine-driven oil pump, delivering three gallons per minute at from 25 to 200 pounds pressure, as required, provides the power to the three pistons through gyro-pneumatic-controlled balanced

British Car Firm Makes Own Tools

Initiative And Progress.

An instance of the initiative and progressiveness of the British motor industry is given in the decision of one of the largest British car manufacturers to make its own tools.

Not being content with obtaining these tools from abroad as hitherto, the factory experts now design and build a large proportion of the tools required for special processes themselves.

The latest batch includes crankshaft lathes and gear running-in machines. One of the outstanding products of the factory is a diamond borer for machining pistons to an accuracy of .00025 inch.

About 200 machines designed and built in its own workshops are in operation.

The net weight of the complete automatic pilot is approximately 75 lbs. including one gallon of oil, copper tubing necessary for the ordinary installation and the component Artificial Horizon and Directional Gyro.

This equipment as well as the other mechanical parts of Mr. Wiley Post's record-breaking plane, were lubricated with Gargoyles Mobiloil and Mr. Post is loud in his praise of the reliable qualities of Mobiloil as well as Socony-Gasoline, both used on his World flight.

TRUTH AND FICTION

An account of an accident which occurred recently at Petersham Hill, Richmond reads like a story from a boys' adventure magazine. A motorlorry laden with bricks got out of control going down the hill and collided with a steam wagon. Thousands of bricks were scattered in all directions, and the lorry caught fire. Amazing to relate, the driver of the lorry escaped by leaping from a tree.—("The Autocar.")

"HAPPY EVER AFTER."

An Erich Pommer production is always sound guarantee of something different, and "Happy Ever After," the first of the Ufa-Gaumont-British pictures in the new arrangement, is definitely first-class film entertainment, combining charm of story in novel settings, with superb technique.

The cast is a brilliant one, consisting of Lilian Harvey, Jack Hulbert, Cicely Courtneidge, Sonnie Hale. The wistful charm of lovely Lilian Harvey has never been shown to greater advantage and supported by the jolly robust humour of the Hulbert-Hale team the joyous result can well be imagined.

The deft handling of fantasy and reality in this fascinating film is exceedingly clever, and this fact is impressed on the mind as the film unfolds. Director Paul Martin undoubtedly enjoyed his subject and the result is a film in a class by itself that can be appreciated and enjoyed by any audience.

Jack Hulbert and Sonnie Hale are happily cast as two pals, who earn their living as window-cleaners, astride their bicycles, ladders and palls along from their shoulders, merrily whirling their way to work.

We are then introduced to "Illustrated Ida," in other words Cicely Courtneidge, the "girl" in charge of the newspaper kiosk. It is not difficult to believe the humour and fun Cicely succeeds in getting out of this role.

After greeting Ida, the boys go cheerfully on their way to the American Embassy, where they are due to clean the windows.

There they see from their ladders a huge commissionaire endeavouring to throw out a very pretty little girl and her dog. Our heroes go to the rescue with buckets of water and the lassie escapes on to the roof, where the friends join her.

POLITICAL SCANDAL

SENSATIONAL LABOUR PARTY DISCLOSURES

Leadership Intrigues Alleged.

SNOWDEN, MACDONALD AND HENDERSON

London, Yesterday.

A political stir in which Viscount Snowden, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, the Prime Minister and Mr. Arthur Henderson, Leader of the Labour Party, and also President of the Disarmament Conference, are the central figures, has been caused by Commander Kenworthy's allegations of intrigues over the leadership of the Labour Party in 1931.

Lord Snowden, yesterday, hotly declared that the story is an "unmitigated lie."

According to Comdr. Kenworthy, who is telling the story in a forthcoming autobiography, following the idea that Mr. MacDonald should go to India as Viceroy, the Party approached Mr. Henderson who was willing to be nominated for leadership if Lord Snowden was prepared to support him.

Comdr. Kenworthy and others approached Lord Snowden, who was at first charming believing that the indication was to himself. Afterwards, Comdr. Kenworthy believed, when the truth came out, Lord Snowden began to hate the Party with which he had spent many years.

Lord Snowden's denial further accuses Comdr. Kenworthy of asking him to intrigue against Mr. MacDonald, which he flatly refused to do.—Reuter.

SOONG WELCOMED IN NANKING

Reports To Central Council.

TO SEE CHIANG KAI-SHEK.

Nanking, Yesterday.

Mr. T. V. Soong and his entourage arrived here shortly after 7 o'clock this morning and were accorded an enthusiastic welcome by a number of Government officials, including Mr. Wang Ching-wei, President of the Executive Yuan.

Mr. Soong immediately drove to his private residence together with Mr. Wang for a short rest.

Mr. Soong attended a meeting of the Central Political Council and reported in detail on the results of his trip abroad. He also dealt at some length with the general political and economic condition in Europe and America.

The Nanking Government leaders, Messrs. Wang Ching-wei, T. V. Soong, H. H. Kung and Huang Fu, are prepared to take a Sikorsky plane for Kuliang where an important conference with Marshal Chiang Kai-shek has been arranged.—Central News Agency.

LO WEN KAN AT LANCHOW.

Suchow, Yesterday.

Dr. Lo Wen-kan arrived here by air from Lanchow this morning and will fly to Tehu to-morrow if the weather permits.—Central News Agency.

LABOUR, AND FORD, RETARD U.S. RECOVERY.

Following Mr. Ford's refusal to sign the suggested wage and working hour Code, General Hugh Johnson has threatened to withhold the coveted "Blue Eagle" from Mr. Ford if the latter persists in his refusal.

More serious still is the threat to commence a popular boycott against Ford products, while the Administration threatens to forbid Government purchases of Ford products.

The Ford plants working hours are slightly longer, and the pay is slightly higher than under the Code for the motor industry.
